CITY, COUNTY SET UP 1939 FINANCE BILLS

Appropriations Drafted by Council Committee $1,500 Above Last Year's.

PASSAGE DUE TUESDAY

County Allows $338,460 for Year's Operations, $680 Less Than in 1938.

City and county governments had set up their 1939 appropriations today, providing about the same amount of money for operations as they had available in 1938.

City council's finance committee today had ready for action by council as a whole next Tuesday an appropriation ordinance providing $278,322 for departments operating on general fund revenue, about $1,500 more than was appropriated last year.

County commissioners announced today appropriations of $338,460 for county offices, $680 less than was spent in 1938.

Debt Retirement Drops.

Both city and county were able to reduce their allocations for debt retirement. The county set up $42,587 as compared with $68,362 last year, while the city allocated $132,542 for debt service, as against $134,000 last year.

The county's entire appropriation, including operation of all departments and debt and interest requirements, is $601,000, a drop of approximately $62,000 from last year's figures, all but $680 being in the reduction in debt retirement needs and interest.

Contributing most to the reduction was the payment of $35,000 in state relief bonds in 1938 and a $26,000 decrease in the general operating debt last year.

T. B. Fund Cut $10,000.

Principal changes in the county's operating appropriation were a $10,000 reduction in the amount set up for care of tuberculosis patients and an additional $5,000 provided for the county's contribution to the state public employes' retirement system.

Started late in 1938, the retirement plan requires the county to match 4 per cent contributions from the salaries of appointive employes.

The $10,000 cut in the hospital fund was made possible by the approval in November of a half mill levy for care of tuberculosis patients which enabled the county to postpone payment of its hospital bills until late this year.

BRICKERS MOVE

Governor-Elect, Wife Prepare to Take Over Mansion.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—It's moving day today for Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker and his family, but it didn't mean much to the man who will become Ohio's 54th governor next Monday.

He went to his law office, as usual, and his son, Jack, went to school, leaving Ohio's new first lady to supervise the moving from their Arlington home to the executive mansion.

So disinterested was Bricker in the shift of residences that late yesterday he wasn't certain just when the Brickers would be able to take possession of the mansion.

Governor Davey simplified matters by moving from the mansion with his wife yesterday and taking up quarters in a downtown hotel.

Akron Man Boasted He Once 'Arrested' Lincoln.

AKRON—(AP)—Death of Charles Sherbondy, 96, colorful Akron Civil war veteran, thinned the ranks of Akron's Civil war veterans to three today.

Sherbondy often boasted that he once "arrested" President Abraham Lincoln when he was on guard duty near Orange Courthouse, Va., because the president didn't know the countersign.

Foils Attempt to Steal Body Of Slain Ohioan, Sunk In Pond Alive

Undertaker Says Prowler Tried To Pry Window Open; Coroner Reports Youth, Slain On Wedding Eve, Wasn't Dead When Shoved Though Hole In Ice.

(By Associated Press)

MARYSVILLE—A possible attempt to steal the body of Clark S. (Bill) Hayes, 28, slain on the eve of his wedding, was reported today by Sheriff Homer Roosa.

The sheriff said that E. S. Faulkner, senior partner in an undertaking firm which has charge of the body, frightened away about 3:30 a. m. a man who attempted to pry open a window at the mortuary, located across the street from the county jail here.

"Someone either was trying to steal the body or was looking for the wire and can," Roosa said. "The wire and can, though, are locked up safely in the courthouse."

Hayes' body, bound with copper wire and tied to a rusty, stone-laden milk can was found yesterday by a diver in an abandoned quarry near Summersville, 12 miles north of here, where Hayes worked as a clerk in the crossroads grocery store.

Faulkner, sleeping in a room next to the body, said he was awakened by the sound of someone trying to force the window. He was unable to furnish a description of the intruder, who escaped on foot.

Blames 'Local Talent.'

Sheriff Roosa expressed the opinion that "local talent" was responsible for the mysterious killing and indicated that "several suspects" might be questioned soon, but admitted that he had virtually no clues on which to work.

Coroner J. M. Foster returned a verdict of murder by drowning following an autopsy last night. Foster said the presence of water in the victim's lungs indicated that he was alive, although probably unconscious, when his assailant slipped his weighted victim through a hole in the ice covering water in the abandoned quarry.

The body, to which a stone-laden milk can had been attached with wire, was recovered from 22 feet of water by a professional diver yesterday as a small crowd of spectators watched.

Missed Since Tuesday.

Hayes' disappearance became known Tuesday night. The truck in which he delivered goods for Grocer Charles Nichols of nearby Summersville was found near the quarry. Tracks in the country road indicated, Roosa said, that Hayes had been stopped by someone in a smaller machine. A rock lay on the floor of the truck cab and there was a bruise on Hayes' head.

RESTORES PART OF SALARY CUTS

Westinghouse Hikes Pay of 5,000 in Lower Brackets, Affects Number Here.

Partial restoration of pay reductions among salaried employes of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, including a number at Mansfield, was announced today.

The announcement, which came from President George H. Bucher in Pittsburgh, said all salaried employes who were receiving $125 or less per month last May would have a 10 per cent pay cut, put in effect June 1 last year, restored at once.

In all, about 5,000 salaried workers in the lower brackets will be affected, the Pittsburgh announcement said, about a third of the number whose pay was cut last year. The reduction affected all salaried employes.

President Bucher said the pay restoration was being made being made because of "improved business conditions."

Less than 24 hours before the announcement, the Associated Press reported, Westinghouse received a $2,233,000 contract for machinery for two navy battleships and a $764,000 order for two giant generators to be installed at Charleston, S. C. This equipment will be made at the company's Pittsburgh plants.

Police Dress As Criminals, Seize Huge Opium Cargo

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Policemen, disguised as criminals and aided by coast guardsmen and customs agents, sprang a trap on a smuggling ring today, captured three men and seized $150,000 worth of opium after a gun battle on the Brooklyn waterfront. One policeman was wounded.

The opium was brought here on the S. S. Ida, from Italy, and was transferred in the harbor to a launch at midnight during a rain storm. The smugglers thought their own men were aboard the launch but it was manned by policemen in disguise.

The climax came an hour later when the policemen took the cans of opium to the pier and kept the rendezvous with the smugglers' shore gang there to receive it. In setting the trap, the whole area had been surrounded with federal and city agents in cutters, launches and automobiles. Fifteen authorities took part in the gun battle and more than 100 shots were fired.

DEATH NEARER

Slayer With Mind of Child of Six to Die Tonight.

CANON CITY, Colo. —(AP)— A 23-year-old man ate ice cream in the death house of the state prison here today, childishly unaware that he might be led to the lethal gas chamber tonight to die for the 1936 ravishing and slaying of a 15-year-old girl.

Joseph Arridy, who has a mental age of six years, will die soon after 10:15 p. m. unless Gov. Teller Ammons reverses his announced intention not to extend executive clemency.

Warden Roy Best of the state prison said Arridy's smile of noncomprehension that had greeted repeated efforts to convince him of his fate seemed to falter momentarily yesterday.

Arridy and Frank Aguilar, 34-year-old WPA worker, were convicted of the ax slaying of Dorothy Drain, 15, in her Pueblo home Aug. 15, 1937.

Reorganization Issue Bobs Up In Frankfurter Confirmation

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Th court reorganization issue may be revived in senate hearings on Felix Frankfurter's nomination to the supreme court.

Although most senators expressed hearty support of the liberal Harvard law professor, several predicted today he would be asked for his views on the Roosevelt court bill, rejected by the senate in 1937.

Frankfurter, a White House adviser since the inception of the New Deal, was appointed yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt to succeed the late Justice Cardozo. He is not expected to join the court until the senate confirms his nomination.

Several members of the senate subcommittee began a study of the appointee's past utterances in an effort to ascertain his attitude toward the court reorganization plan.

Senators King (D-Utah) and Connally (D-Tex) said that while Frankfurter had made no definite statement on the program there were indications he had opposed it.

Hearings also were scheduled on three other nominations Mr. Roosevelt sent to the senate yesterday—those of former Senator Pope (D-Idaho) to be a TVA director, Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce, and Frank Murphy to be attorney general.

Last Doubts Dissolve On Pardon Hopes for Mooney

Complete Freedom Looms for Famous Prisoner; District Attorney Says He Won't Fight Release.

(By United Press)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal.—Thomas Joseph Mooney, famous labor prisoner, spends his last day behind the walls preparing speeches he will give tomorrow when he receives citizenship and a hero's welcome.

Any doubt that he would be pardoned at a hearing called by Gov. Culbert Olson dissolved when Mathew Brady, San Francisco district attorney, chose not to oppose his release. Brady wrote Olson his decision yesterday "in view of the fact that all the principal witnesses (against Mooney) have been discredited."

Says He Was 'Framed.'

Mooney for 22 years has contended that he was "framed" by an anti-labor conspiracy and sent to prison for life for the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing in 1916 that killed 10 and injured 40 persons. He, and Warren K. Billings, convicted with him, were prominent wartime labor organizers.

Olson in his campaign for governor said he believed Mooney innocent and promised to allow any person or organization to show cause why a pardon shouldn't be given. There have been no objectors, the last legal opposition was removed by Brady, and the hearing will be formality, ending, perhaps, by Saturday noon.

Upon release, Mooney plans to devote his speaking efforts to unite warring factions within labor and to freeing Billings.

Most eager of the thousands awaiting Mooney's complete exoneration was his wife, Rena. She, with his late mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, has kept alive his fight for freedom.

Spanish Loyalists Advance Along 40-Mile Front.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier,—(U.P.)—A surprise Loyalist offensive in southwestern Spain, presumably intended as a diversion to relieve pressure on the Catalonian front, offered a serious threat to Nationalist communications today.

Reports were that the Loyalists were attacking over a front of more than 40 miles and had made unexpected progress breaking through insurgent lines, storming villages and strategically important hill ranges, and cutting highways and railroads in the center of the important Almaden mining area.

The Loyalist drive came just when the Nationalists, occupying the towns of Artesa de Segre and Borjas Blancas, ended the second phase of their Catalonian offensive.

DAVEY PARDON CANCELS $300 FINE ON AULT

Governor Clears Highway Chief After His Sentence for Soliciting Funds.

EXECUTIVE SCORES LAW

Says Both Parties Violated It for Years, Calls Supporter's Offense Minor One.

State Highway Director Ivan R. Ault, convicted in Mt. Vernon of violating the state law by soliciting civil service employes for contributions to Gov. Martin L. Davey's unsuccessful primary campaign today had been granted a full pardon by the governor.

Ault was fined $300 and given a suspended 60-day jail term yesterday by Judge P. H. Wieland of Knox county, who overruled Ault's motion for a new trial. The case was taken to the Knox county courts on a change of venue. Ault was chief of the Ashland division at the time of the offense.

Davey's Objections.

Dispatches from Columbus today said Davey in announcing the pardon, issued a statement in which he said:

"The two things to which I object in this case are the political nature of the prosecution and the suddenness with which a non-enforced law has been turned against good citizens of Ohio, merely because they happen to have been friends of ours."

The governor said the law prohibiting solicitation of contributions from civil service workers had been violated for many years by both political parties and that it "has been a dead letter" from its enactment.

Like Speed Traps, He Says.

He compared prosecution on these charges to establishing "all-of-a-sudden speed traps" to catch unwary motorists and added:

"The fact is that if everybody in Ohio were prosecuted for violating the laws now on the statute books, many of which are dead letters through non-enforcement, it is probable that a large proportion of the population would be involved."

The governor said the offense of which Ault was convicted was only a misdemeanor which he said was "a minor case in the eyes of the law, itself."

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A bill providing for a prison sentence, a heavy fine, or both, for the solicitation of political contributions from civil service employes of the state or any of its sub-divisions, will be sponsored in the general assembly by the Tax Limitation League, Inc., it was announced here today by W. I. Lawrence, Columbus, secretary.

Cannons Roar In Pitched Battle At Border City

Both Sides Suffer Casualties, Shells Hit Hotel, Theaters; Hungary Tells Prague She Won't Be To Blame For What Might Happen In Future.

BULLETIN

BUDAPEST, Hungary — (UP) — An official announcement tonight said that Hungarian troops had driven Czechoslovak soldiers and irregulars back across the frontier after an all-day battle with artillery, machine guns and tanks near Munkacs.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST—The Hungarian government reported today two Czechoslovak artillery bombardments of the border city of Munkacs in a pitched battle between Czechoslovak and Hungarian forces.

Reports of the battle, involving cannon, tanks and armored cars, spread a wave of excitement through the nation. Munkacs is in the territory Czechoslovakia ceded to Hungary two months ago.

High officials of the government met in continuous conference.

The foreign office announced that a strong protest had been made to Prague, charging violation of Hungary's border. It said the German and Italian legations in Budapest had been informed.

"Hungary waives all responsibility for what may happen," an official statement warned.

Official advices said both sides had suffered casualties.

In the first bombardment, they said, a hotel, a motion picture theater and the Munkacs municipal theater were struck by Czechoslovak shells.

The Hungarian official news agency said a second barrage began at 2:20 p. m. (8:20 a. m., EST). It reported four hits on buildings of the city, which was part of the award of 4,875 square miles of Czechoslovak territory made to Hungary by Italian-German mediation at Vienna last Nov. 2.

Call Them 'Brawls.'

(Vague reports of what Czechoslovaks regarded as a "number of brawls" in the Munkacs region were made to Prague. Lack of details was ascribed to poor communications, but the Hungarian reports were considered exaggerated.)

Munkacs—also called Mukacevo—200 miles northeast of Budapest, lies in a strategic region in the Carpathian mountains where Czechoslovak, Hungarian, Rumanian and Polish borders come close together. Two hundred miles to the east lies the Soviet Ukraine.

(The frontier between Czechoslovakia and Hungary has been inflamed since the Vienna mediation which was made amid grave tension between the two countries in which both were partly mobilized. There has been sporadic vio-

Congress in Recess, Leaders Hurry to Get Roosevelt's Plans Ready for Action.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The new congress was in recess today over the week-end while the harassed leaders labored to gear the machinery to grind out the enormous burden of work and responsibility President Roosevelt has imposed upon them.

In two very brief legislative days, Mr. Roosevelt has given congress work enough to occupy it for six months, much of it enmeshed in political controversy, with more to come.

There is the $9,000,000,000 budget to wrestle with; an $875,000,000 emergency appropriation which must be made within a month if more than 3,000,000 WPA workers are not to be laid off; a $1,300,000,000 armament program coming up; presidential suggestions for new taxes to finance this

Gossips Busy As Capital Hears Of Davey-Allman Rift

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The capital buzzed with rumors today of a rift between Welfare Director Margaret Allman and Gov. Martin L. Davey over the appointment of Davey's secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, to a $6,000 parole board post.

While parole board members invariably are selected by the governor, the law specifies that the welfare director shall appoint them. Mrs. Allman, persons close to the governor said, refused to appoint Mrs. Smith until after a personal visit from Davey.

Davey announced Mrs. Smith's appointment Tuesday. The following night he was given a testimonial dinner and Mrs. Allman's name appeared on the printed program as one of the speakers, but Chairman John Caren did not call upon her and she was not seen at the speakers' table with Mrs. Smith and the others who spoke.

Bar Committee Submits Plan For New Courthouse And Jail

Proposal for the construction of a new courthouse and jail combined and the installation of an elevator in the present building to serve until the new structure can be provided was submitted to the Richland County Bar association this afternoon at its annual meeting.

The proposal was included in the report of a special committee of three members of the association, Atty. George W. Biddle, chairman, Atty. L. H. Beam and Atty. William F. Black.

The report and proposal will be submitted to county commissioners with the recommendation that they start a move to obtain federal funds to help finance the construction of the building, Biddle said.

Describing the present courthouse, built in 1870, as "inadequate for housing county, state and federal offices and storage of records," the report says it would be inadvisable to spend money remodeling the old building.

The committee's report recommends that the proposed courthouse be built on the site of the present jail and the street and parking lot between the jail and the present courthouse, just south of the present building.

Cost of installation of an elevator in the old courthouse was estimated at $5,000.

Meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, the bar association was expected to act on the proposal and to elect officers for the year. Atty. R. E. Hutchison has been president for the past year.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

ALL the balmy weather we've been having this week has apparently had much the same effect in mid-winter that the warmer breezes have in spring . . . at least lots of young men have already turned their thoughts to love . . . and since actions speak louder than words, fraternity pins and diamond rings make some pretty concrete evidence.

Carolyn Woltmann, who returned to Bradford junior college this week, is probably the envy of all her classmates . . . for she is the proud possessor of a Phi Gamma Delta fraternity pin—from Ed Jelliff at Ohio State.

Barbara Hartman also was wearing a fraternity pin when she boarded the train for Simmons college. . . . Hers is Harrison Lowrey's Beta Theta Pi pin. . . . Harrison is at the University of Michigan.

EVELYN NEWBRIGHT is ever so proud of her diamond ring. . . . It was a gift from Richard Hursh—a Mansfielder who manages his own drug store in Bellville.

There's another diamond ring at Lumbermens these days. . . . It can be seen on Louise English's left hand—presented to her by Richard Smith.

And by the look of things at this date, Mansfield will be losing several school teachers along about next June. Evelyn Sonners received a lovely diamond ring from a young man who works for the government in Washington, D. C. Evelyn once taught at John Simpson, is now at Hedges Junior high.

One of the teachers at Prospect school also has a new diamond ring. . . . Her name's Dorthea Hayden, and the ring's a gift from Jim Stiles, who lives in Canton.

Did you know that Mary Jane Curtiss, who teaches at West Fifth Street school, has been sporting a fraternity pin for the past couple of weeks now too? It's Bob Freeman's pin.

BOB McCORMICK has returned to Ohio State university and many responsibilities. Bob is the sophomore secretary of the Student Senate on campus . . . and is working toward the presidency of that organization in his senior year. It's just about the most important job for men on the campus. Bob lives at the Tower club in Columbus and is a member of Romophos—sophomore men's honorary society.

It's their first trip away since that Bermuda honeymoon last fall. . . . Clara and Tom Siegenthaler are spending this week in Chicago. . . . Tom's there for the national shoe convention.

Early Wednesday morning . . . just 15 minutes before school started . . . Peg Black arrived in town. Peg is back from her holiday in Hamilton, Bermuda, where she visited with Millicent and Howard Kehout . . and she had to rush right off the train to resume her teaching duties at Bowman school. Peg can't say enough about the wonderful time she had on her sojourn. . . . Since there are no automobiles on the island, Peg spent much of her time riding bicycles. . . . In fact she even rode to a formal dance on the handlebars . . . while her date pedaled along behind, attired in white tie and tails.

WEDNESDAY brought the return of Violet Richardson (she's program chairman at the Y. W. C. A., you know) too. . . . She spent the holidays with her parents in Boston, Mass. Vi found it all pretty exciting because her sister and brother-in-law were just back from the Philippines after four years with a five-year-old daughter and an infant son. Incidentally, if you're fond of silhouettes, you should see the copy of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sonnets From the Portuguese" which Vi received for Christmas. . . . It's really very fine . . . with a silhouette opposite each sonnet.

"Better late than never" is an old adage in which Rosalie (Henness) McMullen will always take a great deal of stock. She received a belated Christmas card this week . . . but it was from Eddie Duchin . . . so that made it worth waiting for. Rosalie met the piano-playing maestro last winter while visiting in Hollywood . . . and he played the then popular piece, "Rosalie," for her many times. (The card was done in black and white with Eddie's picture, the sketch of a grand piano, stars, and some notes of music on it.)

THEATERS

CHARLIE CHAPLIN will ignore the foreign market—of which there isn't much these days—and make "The Dictator." With his funny little mustache it isn't difficult to guess which of the dictators he will burlesque. Incidentally, he must start production on his next picture early this year in order to hold his corporation status. He has long wanted to do something serious and while "The Dictator" will be a Chaplinesque comedy, it is quite probable that there will be a serious import behind the characterization of Hitler.

Saturday Opening.

A policy of opening a new picture on Saturday instead of at a midnight show probably will be in effect at the Ohio theater for some time. It started last week with "Dawn Patrol" which is still showing there, and is continued tomorrow when "Sweethearts" opens at the first afternoon show. This Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald interpretation of the Victor Herbert operetta is in technicolor, which is more than kind to the luscious beauty of Miss MacDonald. It is their first modern story together.

English Favorite.

Valerie Hobson, the English picture actress who failed to make much of a hit in Hollywood, is still tops in her own country and is seen to advantage in "Drums," the Alexander Korda picture of native rebellion in East India, which is currently shown at the Madison. She played here in "The Bride of Frankenstein" and "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" before returning to England. Sabu, a native of India, has a leading role in "Drums."

Horses and Men.

Ken Maynard and his horse, Tarzan, come to the Ritz screen today and tomorrow in "Strawberry Roan," a story as concerned with horses as with men. The action centers around a magnificent wild horse, the Strawberry Roan, and the offer of a ranchman that his prize ranch will be given to anyone who can capture and ride the wild stallion. Besides this action picture the Ritz is showing "Four Men and a Prayer" with Loretta Young and Richard Greene.

Hoppy to the Rescue.

One of the boldest and most prevalent crimes of the frontier west, the plundering of the stage coaches which carried money and mail, is the motivating force of "Pride of the West," a Hopalong Cassidy episode which the Majestic is showing. William Boyd, as Hoppy, is called from the round-up to solve a series of such bold crimes. Another of the Judge Hardy series, "Judge Hardy's Children," with the western film, make up the bill.

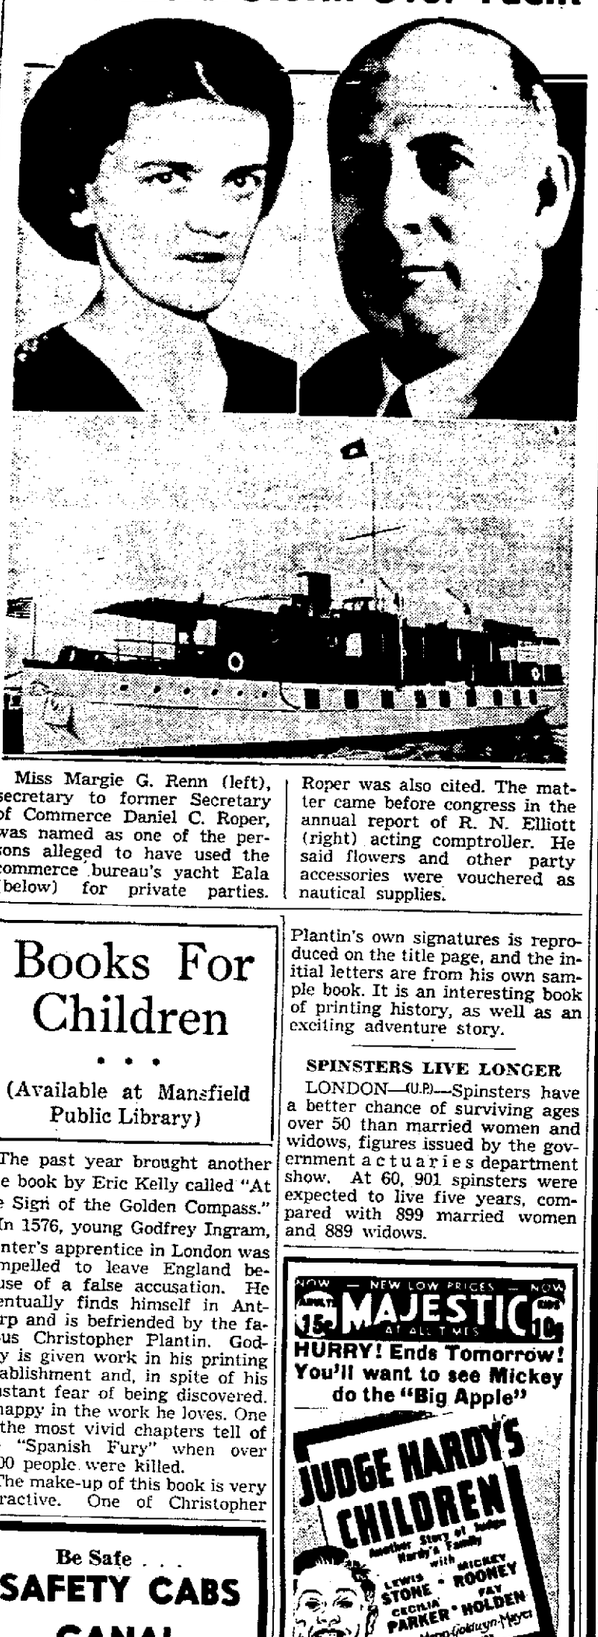
Based on Facts.

"Hell's House," the Park theater attraction through Saturday, was made shortly after the Wickersham report and was largely based on facts provided by that survey of youth and present day crime. Many of the characters in it are founded on facts and the central story actually happened in Los Angeles several years ago. "Hell's House," however is not all drama, but has comedy as well. It is a re-issue of a Bette Davis picture, with Pat O'Brien.

GREETING CARDS REUSED

NEWTON, Mass.—(U.P.)—Boston college students saved greeting cards received during the Christmas holidays and turned them over to the Rev. Richard L. Rooney, S.J., student counselor, for missionary work. Jesuit missionaries assigned to Jamaica, British West Indies, distribute the cards among natives.

In Federal Storm Over Yacht



Miss Margie G. Renn (left), secretary to former Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, was named as one of the persons alleged to have used the commerce bureau's yacht Eala (below) for private parties. Roper was also cited. The matter came before congress in the annual report of R. N. Elliott (right) acting comptroller. He said flowers and other party accessories were vouchered as nautical supplies.

SUPPLIES SHORT

Coffee and Coal Shortages Problems to Berlin.

BERLIN—(AP)—Shortages of coffee and coal are harassing Berlin.

Grocers, reporting that their supply orders had been cut 50 per cent, would sell no more than half or even a quarter pound of coffee to a customer, and said they expected regulations to ration the product to a quarter pound per week per family.

Newspapers had predicted the coffee shortage. They said the government would cut down on purchases because of scarcity of foreign exchange and "various interruptions" in trade with Brazil, which is Germany's main source of coffee.

Coal is one natural product Germany has in abundance and the shortage in Berlin was attributed to a lack of railway rolling stock and mine workers.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The past year brought another fine book by Eric Kelly called "At the Sign of the Golden Compass."

In 1576, young Godfrey Ingram, printer's apprentice in London was compelled to leave England because of a false accusation. He eventually finds himself in Antwerp and is befriended by the famous Christopher Plantin. Godfrey is given work in his printing establishment and, in spite of his constant fear of being discovered, is happy in the work he loves. One of the most vivid chapters tell of the "Spanish Fury" when over 8,000 people were killed.

The make-up of this book is very attractive. One of Christopher Plantin's own signatures is reproduced on the title page, and the initial letters are from his own sample book. It is an interesting book of printing history, as well as an exciting adventure story.

SPINSTERS LIVE LONGER

LONDON—(U.P.)—Spinsters have a better chance of surviving ages over 50 than married women and widows, figures issued by the government actuaries department show. At 60, 901 spinsters were expected to live five years, compared with 899 married women and 889 widows.

Billiards Hang Up Sixth Straight Win In Senior League

Hands Budge Defeat

Elly Vines Gives Former King of Amateurs First Whipping in Straight Sets.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Ellsworth Vines, professional tennis champion, staked his future today on winning a majority of his matches with Don Budge in their current exhibition tour after downing the red-haired former king of the amateurs, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

The victory before about 7,000 racket fans at Convention hall last night was the first over Budge for the blond Californian. Budge had won at New York and at Boston.

"I don't think Budge is the smartest player in the world," said Vines after the match. "He just keeps hitting them back, not brilliant shots but good enough to keep the ball in play with the maximum of effort on my part. I am not being cocky, but I don't believe there is a tennis player today that can beat me six straight sets, like Budge did, when I am on my game."

Vines said he was staking his career on the outcome of the 60 matches he and Budge will play throughout the country.

"I'll retire and no kidding," he said, "if Budge comes out as the king of the pros, it's all right with me, but he's going to have a battle."

In last night's match Vines displayed the skill that gave him the professional crown. He rifled shots down the baselines and played Budge's forehand hard to win going away. Seven times he broke the famous Budge service, with the red-head retaliating only three times.

Dizzy Dean Inks $20,000 Contract

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Ole Diz may be "foggin 'em through" again this season. An injured shoulder which almost wrecked Dean's career last year has almost healed and today he was in the fold of the Chicago Cubs, confident he would win 20 games this season or "pitch for nothin' in 1940."

Dean received the good news yesterday and a few minutes later he signed a contract for $20,000. For one of the few times in his life, Diz said he was not only satisfied but "I'm over-satisfied."

Tyger Mermen Meet Canton

Seek Third Straight Win in Home Pool Today.

Promising to compile one of the best swimming records of any recent Mansfield high team, the Tyger mermen returned to their pool today to engage Canton McKinley in a dual meet.

Victorious over Wooster high and the Mt Vernon Y. M. C. A. in meets to date, the Tygers faced one of their toughest assignments on their schedule today. Atty Harold Burns, who has been coaching the Mansfield team, believed they would have to be at their best to take the Bulldog swimmers.

Ashland, Kent Hold Top Post

Eagles, Led by Sprague, Win Over Heidelberg.

(By Associated Press)

The Eagles of Ashland college currently share the crow's nest of the Ohio cage conference with Kent State's quintet.

Converting free throws into decisive points in the last minutes of play, the Ashland machine trounced Heidelberg last night, 43 to 39, for its third straight conference victory and its fifth of the season in as many starts.

The Student Princes were out in front until the stretch, leading at the half, 20-14. Forward Sprague paced the Eagles with 16 points. Four Heidelberg cagers were benched on personal fouls.

Wooster romped in with a 45 to 33 victory over Otterbein in another Ohio conference tilt. The Scots commanded the situation throughout, holding a 19-11 edge at the half. Frank Grenert, Wooster center, bagged 16 units to grab individual scoring honors.

Forward Frank Baumholtz of Ohio university led the Bobcats to a rousing 57 to 38 triumph over Ohio Wesleyan in a Buckeye conference engagegement. Baumholtz looped 16 markers, on half a dozen field goals and four charity shots, to boost his point total to 134 for seven games of the season. Ohio U. was ahead at the half, 29-19.

The University of Cincinnati thumped Miami's Redskins at Oxford, 43 to 31, with big Lou Cappelle, center, contributing 11 of the victors' points. Cincinnati was on top at intermission, 25-14.

ANNIVERSARY BANQUET HONORS CONNIE MACK

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Celebration of the 100th anniversary of America's national game was inaugurated here last night at a meeting of baseball notables.

President William Harridge of the American league presided at the gathering, with Connie Mack 76-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, the honor guest. The program included the initial showing of the American league film, "First Century of Baseball," produced by Lew Fonseca, one time American league batting champion.

CLEVELAND WRITERS TO HONOR MEL HARDER

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mel Harder, Cleveland Indians' pitcher, will receive a trophy from the Cleveland chapter of the baseball writers' association as the team's most valuable player. Outfielder Jeff Heath and First Baseman Hal Trosky were Harder's only serious rivals in balloting by the association.

NAMED CO-CHAMPION

NEW ORLEANS—(U.P.)—Texas Christian university and Tennessee were named co-champions of the United States today by Paul B. Williamson of the Williamson football rating and prediction system.

Tygers Seek Revenge In Saturday's Game

MANSFIELD basketball fans will not only see another pretty good ball team on the home planks Saturday night when the Tygers engage Cleveland West, but one of the finest individual performers in Cleveland circles.

He is Pete Kosch, who probably had more to do with handing the Tygers a one-point defeat on the Cleveland court several weeks ago than any other member of the club.

Kosch is not large in stature, but what he lacks in height he has made up in speed. A guard, he tallied 16 points in West's 38 to 37 victory over the Tygers in an overtime game.

Kosch will be paired at the guards with Walt Flash, a strong defensive player. Bill Gerrity and Ed Flash will probably be stationed at the scoring posts with Bill Patton holding down center.

Gerrity and Patton have been Kosch's chief assistants in the scoring department.

Mansfield will be primed for the invasion as it is anxious to avenge one of three defeats on the record. To gain this satisfaction, Coach Russ Murphy has worked the Tygers overtime in drills this week.

Announcement was made today that the Mansfield reserves will meet the Simpson Junior high cagers in the preliminary game at 7 p. m. Coach Bob DeHaven's Simpsonites are undefeated, and should cause the junior Tygers plenty of trouble.

Smith, Selby Pound Out High Pin Scores

Roll Respective Totals of 676, 661 to Hold Spotlight In Commercial League Matches.

SMITH of the Heilman Grocers and Selby of the Kochheiser Sports set a fast individual pace in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night with respective totals of 676 and 661.

Rolling scores of 235, 196 and 245, Smith, assisted by Lemunyon's 606, led the Grocers to a pair of victories over the Burghardt Cafes. The Grocer team came through with a 2843.

Selby added games of 255, 188 and 218, but the Sports dropped a pair of games to the Mansfield Rugs, who compiled a 2805 total. Diamond led the Rugs with a 620. The Sports compiled a 2808 series.

The Satterlee restaurant keglers came through with a smashing 2905 total to lead the team scoring. Scores of 991, 974 and 940 gave the restaurant team a pair of wins over the Office Cafe and climbed within one game of the lead.

One of the oddities of the Satterlee team's string was that none of the bowlers came through with a 600. Funston's 599 was high with Henrich shooting a 596 and Anthony a 590.

The Ringside cafe keglers shot a 2795 total to take a pair of games from the Mansfield Printers. Hazelwood pounded out a 619 to lead the Shelby Cycles to two wins over Met's Auto Supplies and the Yuncker Sports added two wins at the expense of Ohio Public Service.

Ohio Titlist Here Tonight

SEXTON . . . the giant.

WITH the exception of Texan Sterling Davis, every performer on tonight's wrestling card at the Armory is an Ohio mat product. The standout, of course, is Frank Sexton, heavyweight champ of the state, who defends his title against Cleve Welch of Cleveland in the featured attraction.

Welch and Sexton have been signed to settle their dispute in a two-fall, one hour time limit match, headlining a card of three events. Sexton will be making his first start here in more than three years and Welch, regarded as the best upstate heavyweight to be developed in sometime, will be appearing in Mansfield for the first time in his career.

Semi-final action on the card, which will be contested over the same distance as the main-go, will pit Walter Stratton of Letonia against Sterling Davis of Texas. The former has always been popular here and the latter has recently "reformed."

Opening tonight's card, which is the first of the new year in this vicinity, will be a one-fall, 30-minute time limit bout between Bob Blake of Columbus and Ike Connors of Newark. First contest will be in the ring at 8.30.

Undisputed leadership of the league will go to the victors.

Shiplet, Phillips and Winbigler scored six points apiece to lead the Simpson attack.

Apostoli Favored Over Conn Tonight

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A new star may be charted tonight when young Billy Conn of Pittsburgh steps into the Madison Square Garden ring for the first time in his short but brilliant career.

Conn, just a growing 21-year-old boy who hopes to blossom into a full-fledged heavyweight in a couple of years, faces New York's middleweight champion Freddie Apostoli of San Francisco in a non-title 10-rounder. The betting is 2-to-1 that Apostoli defeats his ambitious, young opponent but pugilistic odds these days are about as uncertain as stock market quotations on munitions.

The Westinghouse Electric quintet's victory prospects in its meeting with the undefeated Yuncker Sports in the top game on the City Class A basketball league program at Mansfield high Monday night jumped several notches today with the announcement that Harry Ross will return to the lineup.

Ross, outstanding City league star two years ago, did not play last year, but his reappearance gives George Percy's outfit an able point-maker and defensive player.

The Electrics tackle the defending championship Yuncker machine in the second tilt at 8:30.

STOCK LEADERS REDUCE LOSSES IN QUIET MART

Trading Forces Regard Lapse in Yesterday's Market Too Severe.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK,—Selling dreid up in today's stock market and many learders managed to retrieve fractions of Thursday's losses.

While Wall Street seemed somewhat confused over the new national budget, and doubts were plentiful regarding the adherence of congress to the huge spending program, trading forces seemed to feel the business outlook still was bright and that yesterady's relapse in stock prices might have been too severe.

Favored on the come-back were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Youngstown, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Consolidated Edison, North American, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific and Union Carbid. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

On the side of Market recovery forces were week-end trade reviews disclosing a brisk pick-up in post-holiday retail spending.

White goods sales and clearances of apparel and home furnishings, it was said, enabled the retail showing for the week to top the similar period a year ago by 2 to 6 per cent for the country as a whole.

Clouding the picture were figures of the federal reserve for the week ended Wednesday estimating another drop in commercial loans for banks in New York City.

Facts For Business Men

Habit is a great factor in human behavior. Folks heresbout, have The News-Journal habit—and along with their newsreading they have developed the ad reading habit.

This just means that it's too bad when your advertisement isn't in The News-Journal: You've lost a chance to tell the buyer what you have to sell.

NEW DEALERS PUSH PROGRAM

armament bill and agricultural aid; Mr. Roosevelt's expressed desire to scrap existing neutrality legislation; the extension of many expiring depression-born emergency acts; and a raft of nominations to consider, including a supreme court and two new cabinet officers.

All this the president dumped into the lap of congress in two days, leaving to the leadership the job of working out the details and writing the legislation. He said, in effect: "you carry the ball."

After a hasty survey of the situation, with a greatly augmented Republican minority eager to make critical speeches, the Democratic leaders hastily decided to recess over the week-end until they can get their bearings and map out procedure. At that, they didn't act quickly enough to prevent Senator Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, from making a stinging floor attack on the nomination of Harry L. Hopkins as secretary of commerce; and Rep. Gifford (R) of Massachusetts, excoriating Mr. Roosevelt's nine billion dollar budget.

Next week the sound and fury will begin in earnest, with this budget and the new $875,000,000 relief bill bearing the brunt of the attack from Republicans and the more conservative Democrats.

Republicans old and new are bulging with speeches tearing into the spending policies of the New Deal, as outlined in Mr. Roosevelt's two messages this week. They feel they have a real issue there, and they plan to make the most of it. They expect and will get a considerable degree of support from the anti-New Dealers. If they get enough they will be in a position to pare down some of the president's figures.

HOPKINS ASKS AID OF BUSINESS

New Commerce Secretary Starts Conferences Sounding Opinions

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins revealed today that he has inaugurated a series of conferences with outstanding business leaders to seek advice on policies to be formulated in his new cabinet post.

Hopkins said that the conferences have already started and will continue until he has obtained a cross-section of American business opinion.

He disclosed that he had issued an order against use of any of the department boats for "parties or joy rides."

Shorn of Power

Mme. Margherita Sarfatti (above), titian-haired Jewess who was one of Benito Mussolini's chief advisors during his rise to the premiership of Italy, suddenly arrived in Paris after being stripped of all her official posts in Italy. Admitting she was unable to draw upon her ample funds, she nevertheless denied she had been exiled as a result of Italy's anti-Semitic campaign.

ALLEN'S CHARITY GIFTS INVALID

Lorain Judge Says Law Prohibits $65,000 In Bequests.

ELYRIA —(AP)— Probate Judge H. H. Nye held today that charitable bequests of $65,000 made in the will of the late Edgar F. (Daddy) Allen, founder of the Ohio and International societies for crippled children, are nullified by Ohio statute.

Under a law invalidating charitable bequests if the maker of the will dies within a year after the will is made, Frank B. Allen of Philadelphia, son and only heir, will receive practically the entire estate estimated at $180,000, Judge Nye said.

Allen died Sept. 20, 1937, and his will was dated March 17, 1937. Gifts totaling $55,000 were made to Elyria institutions.

ENTERS POLICE TRAP, KILLED

Boy, 13, Shot By Detective Waiting Arrival of Extortioner.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.—(U.P.)— A 13-year-old boy shot and killed by a detective waiting to trap an extortionist was identified today as David Kaempf, a junior high school student.

Kaempf was killed last night by a shot fired by Detective Sgt. Clifford Flood, who was waiting, with two policemen, near the home of Miss Kathryn Walsh, 25, for an extortionist to attempt to take a dummy package from a milk bottle on the porch.

Police theorized that the boy was sent to the Walsh home by the writer of the note, and that he was paid perhaps a dime to pick up the package.

CITY, COUNTY SET UP 1939 FINANCE BILLS

Appropriations Drafted by Council Committee $1,500 Above Last Year's.

the levy collection, which begins in 1940, to pay the bills, commissioners said.

The new budget shows a $1,700 increase in the appropriation for the county engineer's office to provide for employment of a WPA engineer for county projects; a $600 increase in the county's allocation to the county fair fund, increasing it to $4,200, and a $700 increase in the commissioners' fund to provide for an increase in salary, approved last year.

Major reductions include a $3,090 drop in the amount set up for the care of indigent soldiers and their families, and $8,000 reduction in the miscellaneous fund and $1,000 in the emergency fund.

Draft City Measure.

The city appropriation measure was drafted last night at a meeting of council's finance committee with Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley. Members of the finance committee are Fred Miller, chairman, C. N. Schultz and George Berg.

The total city appropriation including the general fund, bond retirement, fire and police pensions, water, sewer and garbage expenses and street improvements and repairs from anticipated state taxes, is $708,947. Last year the total appropriated for all purposes, not considering revenues from self sustaining departments was $699,173.

Little if any discussion is expected on the measure at council's special meeting Tuesday night as mmebers usually leave all responsibility of whipping the bill into shape to the finance committee.

Mayor Hunter issued the call for the meeting after the committee session last night in order to make available the necessary funds for current expenditures and a city payday which comes a week from Saturday, he said.

Bond retirement this year will cost $132,542 which is $2,000 under the $134,444 spent for that purpose last year.

Where Kelley had estimated $174,836 available for waterworks operation from department revenues, the committee pared the allocation to $137,846. This is approximately $12,000 more than was allocated for 1938.

Retire Water Bonds.

The increase in the allocations was due to the earmarking of $29,643 for the interest and payments on the $64,000 waterworks revenue bond issue which was used for the Woodland improvement.

The largest whittling job was in the general fund where the committee sliced $6,000 from fire and police department allocations of last year.

A total of $60,220 is set up in the bill for the police department, a decrease of $1,000 under the 1938 appropriation. Tentative plans had called for the addng of two patrolmen and the replacement of two police cruisers. The committee, however, made a last minute change by omitting the two patrolmen and cut the new car appropriation to $900, which will allow for only one new cruiser this year.

Allocations to the fire department totaled $65,455, or $4,000 less than that of 1938. The difference in the total was the amount set aside last year for the construction of the new No. 2 fire station.

The measure calls for an increase of $5,000 in relief, which includes only medical, surgical and hospital care for the indigents. The committee set aside $5,000 for the staff physicians at the General hospital for services rendered indigents and $17,000 was earmarked for hospitalization, ambulance service and burials.

The budget of the sanitary sewer department, expected to be defrayed from sewer rentals was set at $42,522, an increase of $9,000 over last year. The garbage department was allocated $37,135, an increase of $4,000 over the 1938 appropriation.

SHELBY—Property valued at only $338.74 was reported stolen in Shelby in 1938, Police Chief Leroy Coffey said today in his annual report. No figures were available for 1937 for comparison, Chief Coffey said.

Property stolen during the year was estimated at $2,880.74, Coffey stated, while $2,542.06 of this amount was recovered through the efforts of the police department. The department made 139 arrests during the year. Fifty-five of this number were involved in traffic accidents.

lence and charges of intimidation on both sides.)

The Hungarian radio sidetracked all other programs to give frequent bulletins on the reported hostilities. Civil telephone communications with Munkacs was broken and it was believed that the city's civil administration would be replaced by military rule.

Hungarians said the battle still was in progress in the afternoon and that four Hungarian officers and five soldiers had been killed.

Armored Car Seized.

Czechoslovak casualties were placed at five men. One Czechoslovak armored car was reported seized.

The Budapest version said hostilities were started Thursday by Czechoslovak regulars and irregulars at Oroszeg and by "Ukrainian terrorists."

The Hungarians announced prompt counter-measures were taken.

(The region where the fighting occurred was formerly part of Ruthenia-Carpatho-Ukraine. There had been numerous border difficulties since the September crisis.)

Hungarian military authorities announced this afternoon that a Czechoslovak tank, a mine catapult and a heavy machine-gun had been captured on Hungarian territory near Munkacs. The Hungarians declared this equipment was identified as belonging to a unit of the regular Czechoslovak army.

ter, the bride-to-be, and a clerk in the store with Hayes, remained at the home of Hayes mother here last night, too grief-stricken to see anyone.

"How could anyone kill my man?" she sobbed upon learning that her fiance's body had been recovered. "It's just like a dream. Just think, it was the day before we were to be married. How could such a thing happen to me?"

The motive for the slaying admittedly puzzled authorities. A total of $147 in cash was found in the truck and an additional $5 in Hayes' water-soaked trousers.

Prosecutor William J. Porter said Oletha told him that she hadn't had a "date with another man in six years." She and Hayes had rented a home in which to live after their marriage. The couple apparently had no known enemies, Porter added.

Ease CHEST COLD misery

First massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Work Seems Like Play Since Vendol Relieved Dizziness

Westinghouse Electric employee also had coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, and severe headaches, till constipation was relieved by this famous medicine.

MR. PAUL E. DOUGLASS

"I used to almsot dread for time to come to start my day's work, feeling the way I did, but Vendol has changed all that and now it is more like play than work," said Mr. Paul E. Douglass of route 2, Mansfield emplyed as a Tool Maker at Westinghouse Electric, in giving his enthusiastic recommendation for this medicine that is doing so much good all around here, to the Vendol Man who is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts.

"Every morning I'd roll out of bed feeling dizzy, my head dull and heavy, tongue had a furry coating, and I'd have an awful taste in my mouth. It would take several hours before I'd begin to feel right.

"My meals seemed to disagree with me, lay heavy in my stomach, and the gas was often so bad it made me feel terribly bloated. Instead of digesting as it should, my food would sour, and bitter fermentations would rise in my throat.

"Everyone was praising Vendol so highly, that I got a bottle, and this was the treatment I needed. It gave the most marvelous relief from constipation, then no matter what I ate, I never had any gas, sourness or choking feeling. I began to enjoy restful sleep and now I awaken every morning with a clear head, no dizzy feelings, tongue has cleared off and I have no more brassy taste in my mouth.

"I wouldn't take anything for the splendid relief Vendol gave and I advise anyone suffering from constipation and the many symptoms caused by it, to take Vendol without waiting a day."

Why delay? Come to the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., and give this splendid Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine a chance to help you, too. Let the Vendol Man explain all about it. There is no charge. Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists.

FARMERS BANK HIKES SURPLUS

Reports 'Very Satisfactory' Year, Re-elects Officers and Directors.

Closing what was termed a "very satisfactory" year, the Farmers Savings and Trust company re-elected all its officers and directorate for another year at the annual meeting of the stockholders at the bank offices Wednesday.

Officials of the institution reported that the bank closed 1938 with its surplus increased by $40.000. They said that $40,000 from the undivided profits had been transferred to the surplus fund which now totals $150,000, or equal that of the capital.

Directors re-elected for another year were H. S. Black, Roger A. Black, J. M. Dickson, P. M. Eliot, J. H. Finefrock, C. F. Harding, R. D. Isaly, C. H. Keating, C. E. Nail, P. H. Ober, W. A. Springer and W. M. Weldon.

The board re-elected Black, president; Keating and Weldon, vice presidents; Eliot, secretary-treasurer and trust officer; H. R. Fiedler, assistant secretary-treasurer, and D. A. Eckert, assistant trust officer.

Cupid on Comeback Trail During 1938, 371 Licenses Issued

Cupid began a comeback in Richland county in 1938 when 371 marriage licenses were issued in probate court, an increase of 11 over the total for the preceding year.

Despite the slight gain last year, the county's marriages were still far behind the record set in 1929 when more than 500 licenses were issued. After that, the figure declined yearly until the low point of the last decade was reached in 1937

June retained its place as "the month of brides" last year, but its standing was challenged by October. The court issued 49 licenses in June and 48 in October.

Next on the list was August with 40 licenses. All other months were far below that figure with the low mark reached in March when only 19 couples obtained licenses. Figures for other months included:

January, 23; February, 20; April, 24; May, 32; July 24; September, 22; November, 36, and December, 34.

MORE QUAIL FOR STATE

GUTHRIE, Okla. — From 1,000 coops in the state quail hatchery near here are expected to come 25,000 birds next year for distribution throughout Oklahoma. The number will be nearly five times the total output in 1938. Some 4,500 "brood quail" now are in a long feeding pen, receiving a scientific ration including kaffir corn. Later they will be transferred to the coops.

19-Year-Old Boy Sports Third Set of Natural Teeth

HARTFORD, Conn.,—(INS—Vincent G. Kochunas is 19 years old, stands six feet and weighs 225 pounds.

There's nothing unusual in that, according to the army recruiting station here for there are several "big boys" in the United States' fighting forces, officials pointed out.

But Vincent is a bit different—he is now sporting his third complete set of natural teeth.

According to the youth's parents, the third set replaced the second when Vincent was 15.

Army Sergeant Stanley Kuszewski found the "third edition" to be in perfect condition and the youth passed quickly through the routine physical examination.

CHAPTER 46.

THE BIG International ball was being all the success that Houston's society editors had predicted.

"Everybody" was there. Not literally, because the University club could hold less than a thousand people, and many couples had applied for tickets too late. But the elite were there. And the elite had paid $10 per couple, which is enough to insure excellent music, floor show, refreshments and trimmings.

Refreshments started early in the evening, when a picturesque Mexican peon drove a burro cart into the hall and began dispensing drinks and tidbits.

"Aquamiel, dulces Mexicanas, pecan candee-e-e-es!" he chanted. He pretended to beat on his balky burro, which was two boys in clever costume. Dancers crowded around to sample his delicious punch and his candy.

Later some costumed Mexican women came stolidly to the center of the dance floor, spread a great tarpaulin, and from earthen crocks which they had carried took steaming hot tamales. They were dainty tamale of white chicken meat. Tostados—crusty toasted tortillas — were served them. Guests ate with their fingers only, and amid much comment and laughter.

A live pig, once white but dyed green, with a red and yellow ribbon around its neck, darted across the floor during one dance. Shrieks and yells stopped the dance, and a bow-legged Mexican clown dashed in to catch his pig. With much grunting and pantomime, ten minutes of hilarity reigned.

Such surprises as these popped one after the other. Then, to everybody's delight, the president of the United States, and the president of Mexico, addressed the assembly for three minutes each, not in telegrams as first planned, but over long distance telephone, their voices being amplified in the ballroom. "My friends in Texas," Mr. Roosevelt concluded, "when two great nations can play together it is a significant thing. To the two universities who have met in clean sport and clean fellowship today, and especially to the citizens of our sister Republic to the south, greetings and good wishes all."

Mister Worthington Gurley, freshman, had been checking in hats and coats earlier in the evening, but he managed to keep tab on some of the ballroom fun, too. He sensed that this was a grand ball, grandest he had ever seen. He liked the surprises, the stunts.

He had quickly concluded, therefore, that whatever Peaches Pomeroy had in mind would be another stunt of some sort, probably a hazing stunt. She had wanted to get rid of him temporarily. But he thought maybe the fun with the coats would start when he was gone, and he didn't want to miss one bit of it.

So he took her 50 cents and pretended to leave—but actually he just ducked ahound the hall corner and crawled down under the shadow of some potted palms.

He moved silently back to within ten feet of Peaches, where he had a full view of the checking counter and of the hats and wraps within, and he crouched there in the semi-darkness to see what Peaches would do.

Was she going to start switching the checks ahead of the sophomores? He didn't know, but he would dog-gone sure see! Worthington snickered, silently.

Somebody was singing again in the big ballroom.

"Tonight I'M the gay caballero,
Out for much pleasure—Ho ha!"

It was the "Fiesta Song" that Don Romero had introduced. It had a catchy swing. A gay Mexican tune. Don Romero had sung it three times, and the orchestra had picked up the melody. Pretty soon everybody seemed to have the words memorized, of the chorus, at least.

"I'll catch me a girlo,
And give her a whirlo,
Of whoopee a la Espanol—"

When they got to the "Ha-ha, ha-ha, HEY!" part, the crowd all shouted. It was better than "El Rancho Grande," Worthington reflected; better than the cowboy songs where you shriek "Yippeeeee!" in the choruses.

He peered at Peaches.

She had a wild look in her eyes. Not the twinkle of mischief one would expect, if fun were afoot.

She looked frightened. And mean, actually mean.

"Gosh!" breathed Freshman Gurley, curiosity mounting.

Peaches went quietly to each end of the short hall, peered around the corners. Apparently no one was near. Then all at once she hastened back and went around behind the checking counter. She was moving swiftly now.

"She's starting something!" Worthington whispered to himself. He grinned in anticipation and raised up to watch her better.

He thought maybe she might steal a bunch of the coats and hide them somewhere in the building. That would be fun, all right. But then he remembered that Peaches had looked wild, and mean. The thought confused him.

He saw her rummage hastily in the rack where the girls' coats hung.

She seemed to be looking for a specific one—yes, sir, she was—she took down a white coat, one of transparent velvet with a touch of white fur, a nice but not very expensive coat. Why—that was Sara Sue's!

He knew positively. He had chatted with Sara Sue a moment when she came in, and helped her take the coat off while T. J. Sanders was removing his own. Moreover, he had hung up Sara Sue's with especial care. He liked Sara Sue. He would be eternally grateful to her for favors rendered.

Whatever could Peaches Pomeroy be conniving?

Worthington remembered, all in a rush, that Peaches was a heel. She was snobbish. She had been Bob Towne's big moment last year, people said, and now Bob was crazy about Sara Sue Davis. He, himself, had heard Peaches make catty remarks, once or twice, about that. Now she had Sara Sue's coat—gosh!

To his amazement, Peaches began tearing at the lining of Sara Sue's coat.

On the side, near the hem, she was opening a seam, tearing at it with her fingers and her finger nails, and finally using her teeth to break the threads. And she was working very fast, almost frantically, keeping a sharp lookout. Worthington, highly curious, felt miserable lest she discover him in the shadows. A sense of alarm had suffused him.

Voices passing up the hall suddenly alarmed Peaches. Instantly she dropped the coat on a chair, forced a nice smile, and sauntered to the counter. She leaned over, looked left and right. Seeing no one, she was reassured. Her smile vanished. In a flash she was back at her task, working fast and warily. She reminded Worthington of a bird eating. A bird will spend one second picking up grass seed, then spend four seconds glancing cautiously around.

In a half minute, though, she had the seam open—it appeared to be a slit three inches or so long—and she dropped the coat.

Then, surprisingly, Peaches reached for the diamond bracelet on her left arm.

It, ail, offered some difficulty. Being extremely valuable (several thousand dollars, Worthington had heard) it had a positive safety catch on it. Peaches had to take her teeth to that, too. She gnawed, and twisted, and pulled, to get it free.

She pushed the pretty thing through the slit in Sara Sue's coat.

Then she closed up the slit, making it as unobtrustive as she could. She hung the coat quickly on the rack where she had found it, took a deep breath, smiled again and calmly sauntered back outside to the front of the checking counter. She leaned one elbow indolently on it, as if waiting. Then she seemed to change her mind, for she walked down the hall and disappeared in the big ballroom.

(To Be Continued)

DOG FUND HAS PROSPEROUS YEAR, SHEEP LOSSES CUT 50 PER CENT

The loss of sheep in raids by marauding dogs in Richland county last year declined 50 per cent from 1937, reducing claims nearly one-half and giving the county's dog and kennel departments one of the most prosperous years in its history.

The annual report compiled by Dog Warden William Miller showed that 243 sheep were killed by dogs in 1938 and nearly 500 in 1937. Fifty-two sheep were reported injured by dogs last year.

Claims paid for animals killed by dogs dropped from $4,100 two years ago to $2,653 last year.

In addition to sheep, the county's claim list showed 11 goats, one pi and one calf were killed by dogs ast year.

The reduction in animal claims against the county left a balance of $1,441 in the dog and kennel fund at the beginning of this year and permitted the transfer of an additional $1,000 from that fund to the county's general fund, Miller said.

The expense of maintaining the department last year, including the warden's salary, clerk hire and supplies, amounted to $3,809. Total receipts for the year, including a $1 647 balance from 1937, were $9,003.

The department's income, made up almost entirely of receipts from the sale of dog tags, is used to pay animal claims and for maintenance. Any surplus is transferred to the county general operating fund.

DEPUTY RESIGNS

Miss Carr, County Employe for 25 Years, Retires.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe today announced the resignation of Miss Nell Carr, a deputy in his office, effective immediately.

He said ill health forced her to give up her work at the courthouse where she has been employed for about 25 years. One of the oldest county employes from point of service, Miss Carr has been in the auditor's department for 20 years and previously was employed in probate court.

The auditor said Lester Stevick, who has been employed temporarily in his department for the past several months, would be given permanent work and that no one would be hired to succeed Miss Carr.

Vining's New Book On 'Sam's Selling Slants' Off Press

The second volume of "Sam's Selling Slants," written by Vernon E. Vining, director of department store sales for the Westinghouse company, has just been published by Prentice Hall, Inc., of New York City.

Vining, who has gained national recognition by combining philosophy, wit and ballyhoo in his "sales slants," has written two volumes. The first, which appeared in 1935, sold 10,000 copies. Several of these first "selling slants" are incorporated in the new volume of more than a hundred pages.

The new volume not only contains the "selling slants," but short, terse, human interest stories, ending with a moral in salesmanship.

His philosophy is typified by his slant on "Arguments." "I have heard," he wrote, "that John Wanamaker first informed us that the customer is always right.

"I am not so sure of it—but I do know it is a good idea to 'Let the customer THINK he is right.'

"Selling is no business for a man or woman who insists on winning an argument.

"Every time you win an argument you lose a sale. Check it up.

"That doesn't mean we are to avoid discussion of the facts in the case. It really means that a good salesman knows the difference between argument and discussion."

WORRY TRAPPERS

BRISTOW, Okla.—How to prevent vandals from stealing trapped minks was subject of a discussion here. Hunters said best results were achieved when traps were placed so that they fell into the water when the animals were caught. The minks drown and sink beneath the water, out of sight of passers-by.

AUTOIST SUES

Asks $10,000 From Trucking Firm as Result of Crash.

A $10,000 damage suit was filed in common pleas court today against the Jaffa Trucking company and the Brady Transfer and Storage company, both of Chicago, as an aftermath of an accident involving three automobiles and a truck last June 24 in the Park avenue east subway.

The suit was filed by Isadore Fishman, Bronx, N. Y., salesman, driver of the one of the cars, who contends he received permanent shoulder injuries which impair his driving.

He charges in his petition that the crash was the result of the negligence of George L. Lawrence of Chicago, the truck driver who was convicted of driving while intoxicated after the accident. Lawrence was fined $100 and served a sentence in the county jail.

The truck, owned by the Jaffa Trucking company, was transporting whisky for the Brady Transfer and Storage company.

Friendless Man Dies, Estate Shows Amount of $81,725.

KALISPELL, Mont.—(INS)—He died friendless and alone in a tumble-down farmhouse in the lower valley, but he left a fortune of $81,725. The people of the western town thought John Flicken was just another embittered bachelor barely eking a living out of the soil. But when Henry Flicken, a nephew at Somers, filed for letters of administration, it was learned that the lonely old man had quite a fortune in government bonds, mortgages and personal property.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1939.

This week-end is an unusually dangerous period for New Year resolutions—if any are still surviving.

Times are so tough that people in the United States have only about twice as many automobiles as all the rest of the world put together.

America, we learn from Herr Goebbels, Nazi minister of enlightenment, is "stirring up hatred." And he's right. Hatred of cruelty, robbery, murder and barbarism.

Spending Toward Bankruptcy.

CALL for a nine billion dollar budget for the next fiscal year, with calm acceptance of consequent mounting of the government debt to almost forty-five billion dollars by 1940, gives an idea of Franklin D. Roosevelt's thinking on the subject of spending money—without considering whether or not there is ANY MONEY TO SPEND.

The fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt now occupies the office of president of the United States makes his thinking on the subject of spending much more important than it would otherwise be. If he were thinking only as Franklin D. Roosevelt, inheritor of a family fortune, it would not be a serious matter. It would mean only the probability of eventual bankruptcy, which has come to many persons who lacked ability to conserve inherited wealth.

But with Franklin D. Roosevelt in the position of president of the United States his thinking on the subject of spending billions of dollars is of very general concern.

For this is NOT his own money that he proposes to spend so extravagantly—it is the money of the people of the United States—money that has been slowly and laboriously accumulated through years and decades, and much money that has not yet been earned.

To follow the idealistic course which President Roosevelt envisions, and which he glowingly portrays in public addresses, the billions for which he asks will not be enough—there must be more billions—unlimited billions.

The heavy responsibility resting on senators and congressmen is made even more clear by yesterday's budget message.

Fewer Lynchings Than Ever Before.

PERSONS looking for signs of betterment of human conduct in the United States may find encouragement in the fact that only six lynchings occurred in this country during the entire year of 1938—and that all of these were in four southern states—three in Mississippi and one each in Georgia, Louisiana and Florida.

This is a new low for annual total of lynchings, a drop from eight in 1937; nine in 1936, and 20 in 1935.

Lynchings in the United States have decreased with almost unvaried consistency in annual decades, from the recorded total of 231 in 1892. Not until 1902, however, did the total fall below 100, which has not been exceeded in any of the later years.

Blackest record for lynchings has been in southern states, with Mississippi as the chief offender against orderly processes of law in punishment of offenders. Rape and other offenses against women have been the principal causes of resort to mob violence.

When rapid dwindling of the crime of lynching is compared with increases in other crimes of violence during like periods, it cannot be other than gratifying that law enforcement agencies in southern states are making a determined effort to stamp out this evil. This also provides a strong argument against need of a federal anti-lynching law, over which there was a long-drawn-out fight in congress last year.

Basis of Friendships.

ONE paragraph in Secretary Hull's closing speech at the Lima conference indicates an attitude toward international affairs not previously stressed by any government. He was speaking of the importance of friendliness as the basis for Pan-American agreements.

"If it is forgotten, personal experience makes it completely evident how delicate a task it is to create a wholly satisfactory friendship. Relationships dictated by force or created in the design of self-interest run along only until the force is broken or abused or until the self-interest changes. Then they end in disillusion or worse."

It has been observed many times that individual morals are far ahead of national morals. People treat each other better than nations do. Any governments that actually begin to apply to other governments the same principles of neighborliness, honest business dealing, co-operation for mutual benefit, and other attitudes characteristic of normal individuals in their everyday contacts, will have started on the right road to international peace and prosperity.

Magnifying the Molecule.

A NEW "electronic microscope" shown the other day in Richmond, Va., by Dr. V. K. Zworykin of the Radio Corporation of America, is said to magnify 1,000,000 times. It is so powerful that it shows the detailed structure of minute organisms never before seen by the human eye, even with the best microscopes available.

It will now be possible to study disease germs and bacteria in detail, almost as small animals and insects have been studied, and perhaps to understand and cope with the mysterious virus diseases. The ultimate structure of matter is brought nearer solution. Molecules, which are organized groups of atoms, become visible, and we may yet see even the atoms themselves, and know how the world is made.

Ruined Voices.

FOOTBALL FANS may be worried a little after reading the comment of a famous specialist on throat diseases.

"Cheering at football games," he says, "does as much damage to the larynx as a hammer would do to a Stradivarius violin. The next time you go to a football game, take a trained bull to do the cheering."

The doctor may seem a little frivolous, but the idea is clear enough, and he's probably right about it. It seems foolish to wreck voices that way. And maybe it's the crazy yelling at football, baseball and basketball games, wrestling matches and prize fights, that is responsible for the unpleasant voices that foreigners complain about.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — It was Lord Lovus of Braithinsquate or some such place who lately surveyed the city of London and regretted that the Nazis hadn't bombed the place level in a spot or two so the town could be built over to better ways.

And at times we have thought it would be just as well if a long and trying war compelled this country to boil down some of its bronze statues for use as bullets—beginning with the city of Washington.

As regards its statuary, this city never has been able to hit its stride. Of course the city is not really to blame because every statue built to a Union general or a deserving polar explorer has to be approved by congress if any government money is to be used for it—so perhaps the country at large is at fault. The country elected the congressmen.

But anyway, at one stage of the city's development there was a spirit of gratitude for help the Germans and French had extended us in breaking away from England. The result is that Lafayette Square, across the street from the White House, is dotted with monuments showing beautiful European generals cutting the bonds away from the adolescent country while half draped Liberty shivers in the chill breeze off the Potomac. A few paces farther from the White House an eagle at the foot of the Polish general, Thaddeus Kosciusko, balefully bites off the head of a stubby bronze serpent.

Abrupt About Face.

ALL these are in the spirit of a scared boy grateful for rescue from a growling dog.

But that tone switches within a block, for next come the bold and fearless Union generals and admirals whose statues imply they never knew a moment of doubt or panic.

Perhaps it is necessary that patriotic statuary must show all generals and admirals with jutting chins, stiff backs and menacing gestures. But if that is so, then each statue should be done over every few years. It is uncommonly depressing to come each morning face to face with the same forbidding glare from the eye of General Logan or Admiral Farragut and compare your own wavering purpose with the unchanging determination of the men in bronze.

At least a few of the French generals came over to help us in the revolution because they wanted to pull old England's leg, and not alone because they wanted to see America free. Surely we are entitled to at least one foreign general with a sly grin to indicate that he understood the situation.

Room for Improvement.

AND while we are at it, we hold that the capitol interior could be improved, even with a paint-sprayer. The place was decorated by an Italian "naturalist" with the result that the walls are crawling with butterflies, prairie dogs, coyotes, squirrels, lizards and other vermin.

We once knew a photographer who cleaned up on a three year contract with a newspaper which paid him $1 for every face appearing in the pictures he made. The result was that no man ever posed alone in that town and every print was pock-marked with gathering Rotarians or protesting farm delegations.

And that is the general appearance of the capitol. The place is littered with drawings of ancient plows, swords, pistols, printing presses, leaves, cotton gins, flowers, arrows and trees.

AND NOW, THE DUST BOWL CLASSIC!

Little Headway For Propaganda

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—No investigation was required to let folks know that certain countries are doing their utmost to insure America's participation in the next world war if one breaks out presently.

Martin Dies

So when Representative Martin Dies, whose Congressional committee has been inquiring into un-American activities in our midst, warns us that such is the case, his utterance is as sound as a dollar—merely superfluous.

We literally are being "deluged with propaganda," Dies says.

As to propaganda, I doubt (despite testimony before the Dies committee) that it amounts to anything. Britain and France naturally are the two powers which most especially want to enlist Uncle Sam on their side, but preponderantly we are on their side anyway, insofar as our sympathies go. They do not need to propagandize us. Germany seems to have tried it to some extent, through its "bunds"—but no sensible person takes them very seriously. Italian "boring from within" surely has not been done with anything more formidable than an extremely small gimlet. And imagine Japan producing the slightest favorable effect on us in favor of the Mikado!

But Russia, Dies informs us, "is working tirelessly in the United States to make Russia's fight our fight."

Russia may be working tirelessly, but is it accomplishing anything? Hooey!

Worrying About Nothing.

Propaganda may be worth worrying about if it gives promise of scoring an appreciable number of converts, but if it is 99 per cent abortive?—let 'em propagandize and get what fun they can out it.

The only pro-Russian propaganda I have seen that had a modicum of sense in it came from ex-Premier Leon Blum of France, who wants to lineup Britain, France and Russia against Germany, Italy and Japan. Now, I would not want to be suspected of the least fellowship with Soviet ideas. Nevertheless, as a last choice, I should prefer Russia to present-day Germany or Italy. The Soviets started with a perfectly abominable czarist government, and if they have not improved it, at least it is no worse than it used to be. Possibly there has been a trifling improvement. I can refer readers to the writings, of a generation ago, by George Kennan, of the inhumanities of the czarist regime. Yes, I fancy there has been a little betterment.

On the opposite hand, Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini started with relatively decent governments and degraded them. Japan also, though not as bad as Germany and Italy, is worse than it was. I was there in 1912, or thereabouts, and roved around with a camera uninterfered with. Try it now!—and risk a firing squad.

(For that matter, we, too, are going dotty on the subject of espionage.)

It Makes No Difference.

The nub of it is, the whole situation makes no difference in the U. S. A.

Rival foreigners can propagandize here until they are black in the face and they will not make an impression.

We are (in sympathy) with the democratic or near-democratic nations.

We are more with them than we were in 1914—because then the distinction between them was not so clear. At that time we were not so sure that Britain and France were more democratic than Germany and Italy. Today's Russia? — problematic. But a little bit to the democratic-ward.

Of course the new world's game is to keep out of whatever's coming.

Congressman Dies is o. k. on that all right.

One-Minute Test.

Words of Wisdom.

It is not our wrong actions which it requires courage to confess, so much as those which are ridiculous and foolish.—Rosseau.

Hints on Etiquette.

A question that still troubles some young men about to be married is who foots the bills. The groom pays the minister, buys the bride's ring and flowers, and, if he wishes, the flowers for the attendants—but this is not necessary—and usually some little gift for ushers and other attendants. The rest of the outlay is paid by the bride's family.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. It is a contraction of fourteen nights.
2. It is generally caused by the rubbing together of the different layers of leather which compose the soles.
3. No one knows, as her name is never mentioned in the Bible.

Health Advice

Marihuana Is New Drug Menace.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AN INTERESTING and rather disturbing book, written by Robert P. Walton, professor of pharmacology in the School of Medicine at the University of Mississippi, is called "Marihuana—America's New Drug Problem."

The author says that fathers and mothers, members of boards of education, high school teachers, women's clubs, welfare officers, police officers, physicians and nurses, Y. M. C. A.'s and Y. W. C. A.'s should all be interested in this subject, and I agree with him.

Marihuana is a narcotic, habit-forming drug, the use of which has grown rapidly in the United States in the last five years. Ten years ago it was little used here except in Texas and other parts of the southwest, usually by Mexicans. Within the last year 31 states have reported seizures of a varying quantity of the drug and destructions of areas of the growing plants.

Grows Wild in U. S.

Marihuana, or hemp plant, has the same effect as the Indian drug, hashish. The disturbing thing is that is grows wild in most parts of the United States, a fact which is known to the habitues of the drug. Police and narcotic officers have seized supplies of the drug and destroyed many acres of the growing plants in Louisiana, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Missouri, and other states. This shows how widespread the distribution of the plant is and the easy opportunity of access to it.

When it is known that more than 100 peddlers were said to have been selling marihuana cigarettes to school children in Detroit and that school children in St. Louis, New York, New Jersey and Ohio have bought these cigarettes from peddlers, the seriousness of the situation may be realized. In December, 1937, a 20-year-old girl held up and killed a bus driver. Her husband testified that he had previously supplied her with marihuana cigarettes purchased on a main street of his city.

Effects of Drug.

The effects of the drug are to produce, first, a state of excitement and then a pleasant, dreamy lethargy. It has particular effects upon the sense organs of smell and hearing. Lovely and enticing odors and beautiful orchestral sounds are experienced. There is a peculiar stretching out of the sense of time. One doctor who took a dose for experimental purposes got too much and his family sent for a doctor. He was seated in the window of his living room and he saw the doctor get out of his car at the corner. He said that it seemed several centuries before the doctor arrived at the house.

Dreams and hallucinations usually terminate the first effects of the drug, but violent excitement, resulting in acts of violence and behavior disorders, may also follow.

Teachers and parents should be apprised of the situation and be on their guard.

A Farmer's Diary

The Smoke-House.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE old smoke house stands just ten steps from the corner of my neighbor's kitchen. I stopped to get some meat, and saw the rich, blue hickory smoke come slowly through the eaves and the loose, curled shingles of the roof. The farmer unhasped the door. A thick, pungent cloud of eddying smoke wrapped us about and we began to choke and cough and rub our smarting eyes.

For some time the space within looked dark, but when I could see, I discerned two crossbeams hanging from the rafter plates, into which some heavy spikes were driven. From these, suspended on wires beneath, hung large hams and smaller ones, darker than chestnut brown. Thick long slabs of side meat hung, evenly spaced, from the other beam. Upon two large hooks, was placed a pole, five feet in length, on which was coiled some twenty feet of well-stuffed sausage.

When my eyes became accustomed to the smoke, I stepped inside. I stood with my head among the half-cured pieces of meat and caught the tempting fragrance of the permeating atmosphere. The fitful, smoldering coals crackled in a large, iron pot which stood upon the moist, earth floor. A fresh supply of chips and sawdust was heaped near by.

The rafters and the intervening shingles had a thicker, darker coat of soot than any brush could paint. I touched an overhanging beam, and my fingers wore a black and almost fadeless coloring.

"How long has this smokehouse been in use?" I asked.

"Sixty or seventy years, I'd judge," my neighbor said. "I wish I had to sell just now all the meat that's been smoked in here. I'd never need to draw another furrow."

"No Children Accepted"—Why?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

EVERY YEAR, sure's moving season starts, the raves begin. Such as—

"I've been looking for three weeks for an apartment for myself and husband and our little three-year-old girl—yet wherever I go, I meet a 'NO CHILDREN ACCEPTED' sign. Don't you think it's terrible, Miss Robinson, the way landlords combine to exclude children? What's American family life coming to. I'd like to know, if children are to be treated like a contagious disease?"

Before proceeding with what may prove to be a 100 per cent PURGE on li'l Elsie, let me state a few vital facts. I have been a mother for many years. I like children—so much so that I have them around continuously and in carload lots. Yet I do NOT believe that landlords who exclude children are Heartless Brutes. To the contrary, if I had FUR. APT'S. to rent, I also would exclude children—UNLESS I HAD LONG AND INTIMATE ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE PARENTS. ESPECIALLY THE MOTHER. For it isn't Junior or Sister who's the real menace to carpets, mirrors and trick tiles. IT'S DEAR MAMA! And it isn't only due to what Mama DOES—but to a positively appalling degree it's because of what SHE LEAVES UNDONE.

One naturally expects the average female (unless she's inhabiting her own premises) to leave the electric iron on while she gabs her daily hour with her Girl Friend . . . spill her bottle of nail polish on the best rug . . . leave cigarette burns on every table edge . . . and drop pounds of assorted hardware down the de luxe plumbing. But all this is as naught to what happens when Mama is absent, which is far and frequent. For, by some mysterious reasoning, Mama has it all doped out that, when she does find a haven, it's up to the landlord and neighbors to HELP KEEP AN EYE ON LAMBIE PIE. The horror of which you'll never know until you've tried it!

LAMBIE PIE may be just one—or a litter. He may possess the magnificent health, endurance, initiative, determination and assorted dispositions of three Mickey Rooneys . . . all the Dead End Kids . . . a tank of nitroglycerine and a herd of full-grown gorillas. Or he may be a feeble pee-wee with a case of Mammy Blues, who will start screeching the moment the door bangs and keep it up until the neighbors phone for the Homicide Detail, Emergency Hospital, Juvenile Court, Vice Squad and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. But it's all one to Mammy. He's YOUR responsibility—not hers.

For diversion, LAMBIE PIE may eat the ant paste . . . fracture his skull . . . fall into the fish bowl . . . and develop an acute case of hoof'n' mouth disease just as you're in the middle of a shampoo. But does this faze Mama when she eventually returns? F'r Pete's sake, why should it!

"Well, it certainly does beat the Dutch the way some people carry on over the lee-e-east li' thing! You'd certainly think y'u could ask a friend to keep-an-eye-ona-ninocent li'l child . . . without bein' treated as if you wuz a criminal. An' after all you've done for SOME people you could name! It's got so's a girl can't step around the corner for a breath o' air . . . Now Junior, stop that crying! Ain't I got enuff to stand from a lotta—Lissen, Junior Jones, didn't I tell you t' quit that bawlin'? I'll give you somethin' to cry for, young man! There—TAKE THAT! Well, I certainly never saw this child act like THIS before! Seems to me—"

And so on and on . . . and on . . . until the next time!

Which is why I would NOT rent an apartment of mine to any strange Little Mother with a Perfectly Adorable Child . . . not, at least, if I could have my pick of any other form of Nervous Breakdown.

Or until—but it's too, too much to expect—THE AVERAGE YOUNG FEMALE LEARNS THAT MOTHERHOOD IS A PERSONAL JOB AND PRIVATE RESPONSIBILITY LIKE ANY OTHER . . . AND THAT LITTLE ONES ARE A LIABILITY WHICH YOU CAN'T STICK ON ANYTHING THAT COMES ALONG—LIKE A WAD O' GUM.

How It Started

"Tenpenny" Nails?

It is a rare hardware man who knows why tenpenny nails are so-called—or, for that matter, why twopenny and sixpenny nails are so known.

At one time it was thought that "penny" in connection with nails was a corruption of "pound;" but this explanation is no longer credited, certainly not by etymologists.

"Tenpenny" is now generally conceded to be an adjectival form of tenpence, which, in an era when prices were stable, was the cost of one hundred three-inch nails.

Similarly, "two-penny" is a modification of two-pence, the price of one hundred one-inch nails—and "sixpenny" of six-pence, the value of one hundred two-inch nails.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I am not a very civic minded person and if some other town builds a municipal stadium larger than the one in my town I won't get very excited about it. It doesn't matter to me whether New York is larger than London, or vice versa. Nor am I particularly concerned whether any tower in Manhattan will ever lean more dangerously than the one at Pisa.

Nevertheless I must put in my two cents worth in behalf of my friend Julia Chandler, of the Empire State Observatories. The Empire State building admittedly is the world's tallest building, and those associated with that imposing structure may perhaps be pardoned for their faintly amused attitude toward edifices of lesser stature.

What concerns Miss Chandler at the moment is an item in a Canadian magazine which tells of the new Palace of the Soviets now being built in Russia. This story claims that the Russian Palace will stand 23 feet higher than the Empire State.

But, points out Miss Chandler, the Soviet Palace will gain a great part of its height from a 328 foot statue of Lenin. Take this away and the usable part of the Soviet Palace stands only 1049 feet high. This, she feels, is a victory for America, as the usable part of the Empire State building is 1250 feet. I hope the Russians won't be too put out at this.

WHAT do you think of women's hats this year? I think there's a lot to be said for them. They lend a sort of half-expectancy to every corner you turn because you never know what you're going to run into.

A quorum of the boys were discussing this fact in a restaurant the other day and we decided to take inventory of the hats in sight. The most original, we agreed, was a cone-shaped item on a lady's head—don't ask me what held it there—with little windows in it each side. The windows had curtains. Out of the cone came a curl of grey fur. Maybe the curl was supposed to be smoke and the cone a mountain, making a sort of volcano. We never did guess what the curtains were for.

Another number which belongs on any select list of curios was a hanging gardens effect a la Marie Antoinette. The gardens weren't very high, but they were supported by what looked to be four goose quills. This was held in place by velvet ribbons tied under the chin and they were so long they trailed to her waist.

A third was a blue turban with a ruby eye over the ear. A fourth was the ace of spades held upright I know not how. There were others but the ace won and I dropped out. I never learned how the rest of the boys felt about it.

YOU can buy phonograph records on 6th avenue for 9 cents—if you aren't particular about scratches. At least seven shops between 42nd and 50th make a specialty of second-hand records, but, unlike second-hand book stores, I never heard of anyone finding a bargain there. I spent two hours looking through them on a recent afternoon. All of them were badly used, though many were newer than you might imagine.

CALLS ASHLAND JURY TO PROBE COUNTY OFFICE

Judge Chapman Orders Inquiry in Treasurer's Office; Bond Holders Ask to Withdraw.

ASHLAND—Judge C. C. Chapman, retiring Feb. 9 from the Ashland common pleas court has announced he will call a special grand jury to investigate alleged irregularities in the office of H. O. Faber, county treasurer.

Judge Chapman said he hopes to learn the reason why two bonding surety companies have asked Ashland county commissioners to be allowed to withdraw as surety for the Ashland treasurer.

Call Comes As Surprise.

The call for the special grand jury here came as a surprise to all, especially as the outcome of the commissioners' investigation was not expected until next week. Ashland commissioners have already had two hearings on the matter of the alleged shortage of funds in Faber's office, and had yet come to no decision, and announced yesterday after an all morning session that they would not make a definite ruling until next Friday.

In the meeting held here yesterday, there was introduced as evidence, an alleged photographic copy of a confession said to have been made by Faber, and which was the basis for the demands of two bonding companies to be relieved from further liability of the bond of the treasurer.

The statement, alleged to have been made Nov. 17, 1938 was the only item submitted to the commissioners, as Faber's attorney sought to argue the two bonding companies from their main point of contention—that they be relieved of their responsibility.

In the mean time, while the grand jury will delve into his record, and while the commissioners deliberate just what verdict to give in the case, a set of auditors which only last week found a shortage of $1,388 in sales tax funds from Faber's office will continue their check on the treasurer's books.

On Trial in Prison Deaths

Deputy Warden Frank A. Craven (right) of Holmesburg county prison, Philadelphia, confers with his attorney, John R. K. Scott, as they arrive at court for Craven's trial on charge of manslaughter. Four convicts were alleged to have been literally cooked to death in the Klondike section of the Holmesville prison last summer when steam was turned on.

APPEALS SUIT

Bankruptcy Trustee Carries Case to District Court.

Charles Old, trustee in bankruptcy for the former Halbark men's store, Mansfield, today had filed an appeal with the Fifth district court of appeals from the dismissal of his $17,306 judgment suit three weeks ago in common pleas court.

Old, as trustee for W. F. Haldeman and Robert B. Barker, former owners of the store, brought the action against Dr. D. R. Talbot, Mansfield, charging Talbot of breach of contract in allegedly failing to indemnify the bankrupts from the claims of creditors.

Protection from the claims was to have been provided by Talbot after the store stock, good will and accounts were transferred to him, Old said in his action. Talbot took over the assets of the store as chief creditor, Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, his counsel, said.

Old's suit was dismissed by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court who upheld Talbot's demurrer on the grounds that the suit stated no cause for action.

LIKENS HITLER TO MAD FIGURE OF REVOLUTION

Van Loon, Historian, Asserts Both Motivated by Revenge in Book, 'Our Battle.'

Adolf Hitler's religion of hate and his mania to get even with the world are compared with the similar ambition of Robespierre, the maddest figure of the French Revolution, in Hendrik Van Loon's book "Our Battle," which the Mansfield Public library adds to its shelves this week.

This eminent historian writes that both men were motivated by bitterness against the world and by revenge, and explains the Nazi dictator's rise to power. He warns against American indifference to the very real threat which Naziism has become.

Robert O. Ballou's letter to his son, entitled "The Glory of God" is an intelligent account of the development of one man's personal religion. He points out the beauty and significance of the Bible, giving his own interpretation of certain passages.

"Millions on Wheels" by Dewey E. Palmer, technical supervisor of the Consumers Union, and Lawrence E. Crooks, is a guidebook telling how to buy, drive and save money on your automobile.

Ruth and Helen Hoffman, twin sisters, describe a two-year sojourn in Iraq in their book, "We Married An Englishman." The readiness of the sisters to see the funny side of every disaster and difficulty they encountered makes the narrative an interesting one.

Variety of Non-Fiction.

Other new non-fiction this week includes:

"My Life as a Rebel" by Balabanoff; "Philosophy of Descartes," Veitch; "Soul of the White Ant," Marais; "What Engineers Do," Binger; "Power Wiring," Wolber and Rose; "House Wiring," Wolber and Rose; "Sheet Metal Workers' Manual," Broemel; "Modern Electric and Gas Refrigeration," Althouse and Turnquist; "Practice of Lubrication," Thomsen; "Machine Shop Work," Turner and others; "Grinding Wheels and Their Uses," Heywood; Practical Lathe Work," International Correspondence Schools; "Crisis of Civilization," Belloc; "Men and Iron: History of New York Central," Hungerford.

"The Long Valley," a volume of 16 short stories by John Steinbeck, shows more emotional range than this author was suspected of having, and a maturing craftsmanship. He is writing about people, beautiful or nauseating, as they come.

Eight other new fiction books will be displayed Saturday and go into circulation Monday. They are "Count Belisarius," by Graves; "Paris," by Green; "Saints in Summertime," Jackson; "Background to Danger," Ambler; "Manhattan Nights," Cuthrell; "Wild Horse Valley," Tuttle; "This Way to the Stars." Carfrae; and "Three Bright Pebbles," by Brown.

New travel books available to readers at the library are Footsteps in the Sea" by Fleischmann; "Fifty South to Fifty South," Tompkins; "Youth Looks at the World," Fletcher; "Voyaging Down the Thames," Eddy; "Third Class Ticket to Heaven," Follett; "Towns and People of Modern Poland," McBride; and "Down the Tiber and Up to Rome," Eberlein and others.

MARION TO SEE 'TOBACCO ROAD'

Famed Stage Play to Be Presented There Next Tuesday.

"Tobacco Road," the outstanding stage success of the past two decades — or since "Abie's Irish Rose"—will be presented at the Palace theater in Marion, for one performance Tuesday night.

Written by Jack Kirkland from the celebrated novel by Erskine Caldwell, "Tobacco Road" has been running continuously for six years on Broadway and has had four years on the road. The company which will present it in Marion is the only road company now on tour, however.

John Barton (not to be confused with James Barton who did it on Broadway) has the role of lazy, immoral, profane Jeeter Lester, the Georgia share-cropper whose soul is rooted in the soil but who is too shiftless to do anything about it.

SETS FAIR DATE

County Board Elects Officers at Meeting Saturday.

The Richland county fair board will elect officers and set the date for the 1939 fair at its annual reorganization session at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the courthouse.

With most of the directors favoring an early fair again at their meeting a month ago, it is expected that the exposition will be set for late in July, making it the first county fair in Ohio.

Held in July last year, the fair was one of the most successful conducted in the county in recent years.

In the absence of H. H. Wolf, president of the board, who is vacationing in Mexico, C. S. Henry of Weller township, vice president, will preside at Saturday's meeting.

Other officers of the board are C. C. Hout, Mansfield, secretary, and A. W. Strater, Mansfield, treasurer.

BLAMED ON TREE

Roots Grown About Gas Line Cause Blast In Home.

LONDON — (INS) — Investigation by authorities today revealed that a tree was responsible for the explosion that wrecked a Norwich house, and injured four persons. Police reported that the roots had grown around a gas main and that when the tree was pulled down it dislodged the meter in the house and caused the blast.

Boy Scouts Get Until Saturday to Vote In Primaries

Mansfield Boy Scouts will be given an additional three days in which to cast their votes in the annual scout primaries, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, announced today.

Tuesday originally was set as the day for the primaries, but it was decided to extend the voting through Saturday because it was incenvenient to get all troops to hold their meetings on the same night, Dent said.

Three troops, 2, 5 and 6, voted Tuesday night. Members of 17 city troops will vote in the primaries. Five contests will be decided, all on the Nationalist tickets. They are Fred Lavender and Richard Sowash, for mayor; Robert Meese and Vern Myrland, for service-safety director; Morton Frankel and William Fishback for municipal judge; Ed Arlin and Robert Larson for city solicitor, and Kenneth Smith and Edward Maxwell for councilmen-at-large.

Only eight scouts have filed petitions for office on the Federalist ticket, and all will be unopposed in the primaries. Twenty-four in all have filed petitions on the two tickets.

Scouts will vote at their own troop headquarters. Candidates chosen in the primaries will run in an election to be held Jan. 31, to select scouts who will fill the various city offices and "run" the city for one day during National Boy Scout week in February.

Letter From 'Torso Killer' Turns Hunt to West Coast

'MAD BUTCHER' TELLS POLICE TO 'REST EASY'

Message Mailed to Cleveland From Los Angeles Indicates New Victim Slain.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—A letter mailed in Los Angeles and addressed to Police Chief George J. Matowitz of Cleveland, O., identifying the sender as Ohio's notorious 'torso slayer," spurred police today to search for a possible victim of the mad killer.

The message, telling Cleveland police they "can rest easy now as I have come out to southern California for the winter," said the head of the writer's "latest victim" was buried in a gully beside a boulevard in south Los Angeles.

Heretofore, as far as is known, the "mad butcher of Kinsbury Run," has confined his activities to a shabby, scrubby area, crisscrossed by railroad tracks and a straggling little stream, at the backdoor of Cleveland's downtown district. The victims in Ohio number 12, seven males and five females, and all had been skillfully dissected.

'Science Must Advance.'

"I felt bad operating on those people, but science must advance," read the letter, a copy of which was sent by Chief Matowitz to Los Angeles police. "I shall astound the medical profession, a man with only a D. C.

"What did their lives mean in comparison to hundreds of sick and diseased, twisted bodies? Just laboratory guinea pigs found on any public street. No one missed them when I failed. My last case was successful. I know now the feeling of Pasteur, Thoreau and other pioneers. Right now I have a volunteer who will prove my theories. They call me mad and a butcher, but the truth will out.

"I feel it is my duty to dispose of the bodies as I do. It is God's will not to let them suffer."

The letter was signed "X."

Chief Matowitz said the only theory Cleveland police had been able to develop was that a crazed killer, with a flair for surgery, is at large.

The bodies, minus heads, have been found at various intervals during the past four years. Cleveland police estimated they have spent in excess of $100,000 in running down possible clues. Only a few of the victims have been identified. In each case, the bodies were nude, although clothing was found near the torso.

Up and Down THE STREET

When the installation of officers for 1939 for the Kiwanis club got under way yesterday it was discovered there the president and vice-president were "twins." Milo Hieber, president, and Ben B. Boals, vice president, were born on the same day, the same month and the same year ——May 22. The year? You'll have to ask 'em.

During 1939 there are two months in which the 13th falls on Friday, a day dreaded by superstitious persons. Just to prove that they are not afraid of the "Friday the 13th jinx," the January graduating class of Senior high school purposely chose the first of these two days, next Friday, as the date for their class party and dance.

Jean Schill, 237 Helen avenue, Mansfield high school girl, has had more than her share of bad luck with her pets. Several weeks ago her pet cat, which she had for more than eight years, wandered away and never came back, and yesterday her pet pup, Towser, also "turned up missing" and although the neighborhood was scoured, there was not sign of the little black terrier. It was believed that the cat was killed when he followed Jean to the Coliseum the night of the Christmas ball—she was in the chorus—but the fate of Towser is a deep mystery. The pup had a single white spot on his "vest."

Evidently the robins are having a convention around Mansfield, and there is some discussion as to whether they are "first" robins or whether they have been hanging around all winter. C. M. Crafton clings to the latter belief and insists that the robins that have been playing around Central park have been there all winter. Gail Hammett, Weller township, however, is sure that the three robins he saw this morning were "firsts" of the season and a harbinger of an early spring.

The June in January weather yesterday gave Mansfielders a rare mid-winter treat during an afternoon shower. Clearly visible, a rainbow illuminated the northeastern sky, with a secondary rainbow thrown in for good measure.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker today named his law partner, Don C. Power, as his personal secretary at a $6,000-a-year salary. Bricker also named Joseph J. Flanagan of Toledo as publicist in the governor's office at a $4,500-a-year salary.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ray G. Gill of Richwood was named state fire marshal today by Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker.

Gill, 56, will succeed David L. Rockwell of Ravenna in the $4,500-a-year job which he held in 1929-30 under Gov. Myers Y. Cooper.

For his asistant he will have William S. Bucklew, Upper Arlington fire chief. His salary will be $3,600 a year.

Other appointments, announced by Bricker last night, were:

Nelson W. Hovey of Akron, assistant director of industrial relations, $4,500 a year.

Herbert D. Defenbacher of Tuscarawas county, budget commissioner, $4,000.

George L. Kryder of Henry county, chief of the division of foods and dairies, $3,600.

Major Ivan C. Stickney of Toledo, military aid.

DAVEY, SAWYER WON'T ATTEND $25-A-PLATE JACKSON DINNER

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Republicans are in for disappointment if they expect hostility between Gov. Martin L. Davey and Charles Sawyer, his successor as titular leader of Ohio democracy, to mar the Jackson day dinner, annual Democratic "love feast" here Saturday night.

Neither the governor nor Sawyer will be there, according to present plans. The governor planned to attend a testimonial dinner in his honor in Cleveland, given by the Ray T. Miller faction of Cuyahoga county Democrats.

Sawyer was in the Smoky mountains in the South vacationing with his family, and advised Mrs. Mildred Jaster, Democratic national committee-woman in charge of arrangements for the dinner, that he probably could not be present.

Another notable, Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach, also will be absent, as he is seriously ill in a Columbus hospital. Mrs. Jaster said, however, that Francis W. Poulson, Democratic chairman under the Davey regime, and George D. Nye, Pike county leader and political lieutenant of the governor, would be present.

Last year Sawyer chose the occasion of the dinner to launch his attack upon the conduct of the Davey administration as the first blow of the primary campaign in which he defeated the governor for renomination.

The charge for the dinners will be $25 a person. Out of each payment, according to Mrs. Jaster, $5 will go to cover the cost of the dinner, $5 to the state committee to meet the existing deficit and finance future operations, and $15 to the national committee.

The principal speaker will be Robert H. Jackson, solicitor general of the United States. His remarks will be broadcast and later the diners will hear the address of President Roosevelt at the Jackson day dinner in Washington, which is to be carried on a national hookup.

PICKS PICTURES

A landscape, a portrait and a self-made picture of a human eye won prizes in the Mansfield Photographic society's print contest last night.

First prize went to A. E. Alleshouse, 193 Home avenue, for his landscape, "Hills of Grain." Second prize went to Don Newbright, for his portrait, "Judy." Robert Beer, Ashland, took third prize with an unusual picture, greatly enlarged, of his own eye, which he had taken himself. There were 24 entries in the contest.

Judges of prints were M. K. Leggett, L. J. Ott and Coleman Todd.

The society plans a "scavenger hunt" Saturday night, starting for the C. of C. clubrooms. Participants will be given clues to pictures they are required to make, and must take the pictures and develop and print them within a given time.

PLEA FOR HUGE FUND SURPRISES SENATE, HOUSE

Lawmakers Set Out to Learn Need for 875 Millions for Work Relief Till July.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Surprised by the size of President Roosevelt's estimate of emergency relief needs, congress asked the WPA today to show why it wants $875,000,000 to operate until July 1.

An appropriations subcommittee called Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, as the first witness in hearings which members said would be devoted to a close examination of relief needs.

At the same time, Senator Adams (D-Colo.), said that if the house did not cut the proposed fund, there would be a determined effort in the senate appropriations committee to do so.

"The $875,000,000 looks to me like a higher rate of expenditure than we have at present, in the face of many indications of improving business conditions," said Adams.

Funds Nearly Gone.

The president declared in a special message yesterday that the money would be required to keep 3,000,000 on WPA rolls in February and March, with the number diminishing gradually to 2,700,000 in June. Present WPA funds, he said, will be exhausted at the end of this month.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC) and Rep. Woodrum (D-Va.), floor managers for relief bills, said the $875,000,000 figure was larger than they had expected. Woodrum explained he understood the request was to be for only $500,000,000.

Byrnes, who has been working on a new formula for relief distribution, called his unemployment committee together (at 10:30 a. m.) to consider possible recommendations. He said he was preparing data to support his contention that some regions had not received their fair share of WPA funds.

The senate and house recessed over the week-end after hearing the president's budget and relief message yesterday. Legislators were busy, however, getting settled in their offices and making plans to push their favorite measures.

SELECTS PLAY

Ben Goodenough, assistant director of the Players and who has appeared in several Community plays in the past, will have the leading male role, with Mrs. John McCann and Mrs. Herbert H. Schettler having the major supporting parts. Mrs. Schettler plays a character role of an elderly woman and Mrs. McCann has the role of her niece.

FAIR ENOUGH!

What Sins Are Visited On Heads of Women in Name of Fashion in These Days

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—One of the more pathetic sights of the season is that presented by those poor, docile females of rising 25 years who have permitted the milliners and the fashion magazines to crown them with a type of hat which not only makes them look absurd but makes husbands, suitors and other males ashamed to be seen with them in public places.

Often has it been suspected and suggested, half in earnest, that those who create and dictate the styles of women's hats have hit on this or that freak of fashion with no other motive than an impish intent to test their independence and intelligence.

This year, however, there can be no doubt of their purpose, for they have issued monstrosities too hideous for any artistic excuse. Moreover, they win their bet that women will stand for anything bearing the stamp of style, for, notwithstanding the general feminine verdict that the season's hats are awful and that no woman more than a year or two beyond the age of flapper can look less than horrible beneath one, millions of them have been sold at from $3 to $50 each.

These objects appear to have been designed in the meanest malice so as to place upon the heads of unhappy dolls exaggerated caricatures of unlovely things and to compel them, by force of fashion, to sacrifice their human dignity by going out among their fellow creatures looking a little worse than even they appreciate. Hats have been seen which plainly were copied from the old-fashioned china barber shop gobboon, the shapeless fungus which grows on a rotten stump in the forest, the hamburger roll, the pork chop, the fried egg, and the Lascar fireman's greasy sweat rag. They come in surly purples with curtains hanging down the back, in collky combinations of bright rag, lint and engine waste and dreadful jumbles of feathers, glass bulbs and brass.

Now, it is one thing to place a wadded washrag over the eyebrow of some cute, skinny little trick of 18, stick a sprig of parsley on it and strap it beneath her pert little chin with a couple of lengths of dyed bandage. She could look cute beneath a tomato surprise or with no hat at all because she is cute, and the hat really makes no difference one way or another. But those who have unhappily had a little more aging are, with rare exceptions, cute no longer, and not only require a little co-operation from their hats but deserve it at the price. On a lady of this age, which, for the sake of pegging the argument, may be placed arbitrarily at 25, a cute hat is likely to be idiotic and to make the victim look silly and pathetic, as one who ought to have better judgment than to try to look eighteenish.

Ladies who are currently suffering from this embarrassment insist that they are not actually trying to look eighteenish, but that, after all, a girl must have a hat to wear and that the more they look and shop and suffer at the mirrors in the stores the worse are the hats which are trotted out to them. She starts off with something that looks not unlike a fresh-pulled tooth, surrenders at last to a mess of debris with gaudy streamers and hurries home to hide it from sight before the old man arrives.

Fat ones, dumpy ones and average ones who still retain a little of their youthful swish and eyebrow work are equally hopeless in the situation, for these hats all were designed with deliberate intent to insult the sex that has to wear them, and no woman who needs a touch of something in a hat to heighten what she has herself can wear one without definite loss of style and looks. In most cases she looks like hell and knows it herself, but only the half of it.

At this time it seems in order to issue a great, general apology to dowager Queen Mary of England, whose hats for many years were the subject of coarse humor in the United States.

Astonishing jumbles of cheesecloth, feathers, wire and apples they were, to be sure, but looking back at the Queen Mary models over the gruesome things seen in the cities of the U. S. A. today, any fair person must acknowledge them as majestic, lovely adornments which most American victims of the present style could copy with a gain of beauty, dignity and comfort.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Life in Hollywood is just one steeplechase of merriment after another. So gay, so gay, heh-heh.

Especially when it rains. Now when there's a high fog over Los Angeles there's only one thing any person can do. That's to shut all the windows, pray the roof doesn't collapse under the weight of the mist, and settle down to a cozy, shivering huddle over whatever heat the house affords. If one is extreme, one can put on slippers and robe and peruse the old family book. (Some of our most humble people have a book, so there!)

Ah, but need I point out that this is Hollywood? That when merriment calls Hollywood's well-established sanity takes a nap? When merriment plus duty calls—why, what can anyone do? A picture to see, and a party to go to—what a night of terror to be faced bravely! But the mail must go through, and so—

There were times in the memorable journey of ours from Glendale to the Carthay Circle theater when only indomitable courage carried us on. What carried the family vehicle through I shall never know, unless somewhere under its hood beats an amphibian heart. There were times when we plowed in low gear, through mist that was piled curb-high over the valley roads. (For the record, please understand it was at Her suggestion — She being Family Traffic Director—that we took the "short cut.")

"Is this, Madam, your first crossing," the Pilot inquired merrily.

The Traffic Director looked grim. She was keen-eyed for the rolling waves that dashed against our bow. Besides, she is strictly a highway Traffic Director. Besides, she was feeling rather unglamourous. In reaching the boat, both Pilot and T. D. had been drenched in a fogburst. We proceeded cautiously, in strained silence now.

Now this is what I want to know. Why is it that movie stars never looked ruffled or drenched, no matter what the weather? (Oh, yes, we got there finally, miserable but game.) And in a little while we were outside again, seeing all the lovelies in jewels and furs, each as perfectly assembled as though the high fog had picked on us alone. . . . But it was all worthwhile when I saw Claudette Colbert—ermine, I think, but it was the ermine mittens that did the trick. Not every foggy night does one look innocently about and come face to mitt with ermine mittens.

The party was nice, too, even if Dick Barthelmess's chauffeur did annoy the Traffic Director no end by nosing the Pilot out of his rightful place in the lane toward the Trocadero parkery.

There is this about Glamor and Lobster and Champagne which warms the heart. There is that about Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler (he was guest of honor) which also warms the heart. (When "Happy" wisecracked and sang "My Old Kentucky Home" I could see Host Darryl Zanuck's contract-signing finger twitch.) There is that about Gracie Fields' personality and songs that makes you wish her pictures were as good as she is.

And to see the Glamor Girls and Boys oi-oi-ing in the Lambeth Walk—to see the languid beauteous Dietrich truckin' like a jitterbug . . . Ah!

Forget Him, Seek New Interest

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

The boy I'm in love with boards at our house. He is 27 years old and I am 20. However, he's engaged to a girl who lives in another city. I can't get him off my mind, and wonder if you could help me. Do you suppose he will ever give up the other girl for me? He has been here only about eight months. I've thought of leaving home, but hesitate until I ask you.

UNDECIDED.

It would be very foolish of you to leave home under the circumstances. Why not try to fill your thoughts with something else besides a young man who happens to be engaged to someone else? Go out among young people, and in that way you will meet new acquaintances, and will be able to acquire a boy friend of your own.

Take up a course of training, so you can get a job on the outside, and there you will meet new friends.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 21 years of age, and according to many of my friends I am not bad looking, but I don't seem to meet any of the nice young men. My girl friends tell me I'm too old-fashioned because I don't care to drink or smoke. I find most of my enjoyment in going to shows and spending evenings at home in friendly conversation, but it seems the boys nowadays don't want that kind of fun.

I am employed in a business office, and see the same people every day. Clubs don't interest me much either. How does one go about meeting nice young men?

LONELY HEART.

This may seem a little unsympathetic to you, my dear, but I believe part of your trouble is your own aloofness. Most people, nowadays, are responsive to good nature and a cheerful frame of mind. The world is full of gay young folks who don't even think of drinking or smoking, or leading what is called a "wild" life. If you're happy and look on the pleasant side of life, you will soon attract the right sort of friends.

Diary of a Fashion Model

Smart Tweed Frock.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

I managed to get my mind down to the level of business, despite all the talk and fuss about Guido's party, and had a long talk with Madame. She is very satisfied with what I have done and now wants the business to expand.

She is opening her Florida shops and will have the line there. I asked her if it would be possible for us to make a special line for such places as Florida and California. She thought it a grand idea and put her chemist to work. So next month the line will be ready and will be shipped down to Florida. The preparations are designed to offset the effect of too much sun on the face, and though they are very expensive, I'm sure that they will sell. Women who go to Palm Beach don't mind the cost of an article, so long as its suits them. They will be thrilled at the idea of having cosmetics made according to specific needs.

Going to Florida.

Madame wants me to go down to Florida next month and get the line going. I am delighted at the idea. Consuelo, the darling has asked me to occupy her house. The way the show is going, I'm afraid she won't see much of Florida. Later on in the month they are going to omit the Monday night performance. When the weather permits, she will drive straight to the airport after the evening show and fly down to Florida.

One of her admirers, the president of an airplane company, wants to put a private plane and pilot at her disposal. If she flies down, she can sleep on the plane. She'll be there some time in the forenoon, and that will give her all Sunday and all Monday at Palm Beach. Then she'll fly back for the show on Tuesday night. She will play an extra matinee on Thursday, making three matinees a week.

Here is a smart tweed frock in a divine purple and bordeaux mixture. It is a two-piece model, the blouse fitting snugly and buttoning in back. Hand knitting makes the neck trim, also the high-placed pockets and sleeve and blouse borders. The skirt has sharply-stitched pleats set in to an otherwise slim foundation.

There are two grades of bath towels: (1) those that are loosely-woven and will quickly absorb water and (2) those which are of a closer weave and do not dry so quickly.

After cyclamens are through blooming they require a rest. As soon as the foliage begins to ripen off, cease to water it and put the plant in a cool place until spring.

A piece of chamois that has been dampened makes an excellent duster. It makes furniture look like new.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

As Dicky walked to the door of my hotel room with the intention, just announced, of calling his friend, "Jim" from the telephone booth in the lobby, I opened my lips to tell him that he would not disturb me in the least if he should use the branch telephone in my room.

Some intuition deep within me told me that reluctance to disturb me was not the reason for his going to the telephone booth to send his message.

He did not wish me to hear what his message to his friend was. It still lacked several days to the hour named for the rendezvous, spoken of by the woman acting as Dicky's secretary, and I knew that nothing in the world would keep me at that time from trying to solve the mystery enveloping my husband in its sinister meshes.

Lillian and Mary had both declared their intention of getting as near to that rendezvous as would be possible undetected. Lillian had announced that she had "a plan" for that time which she was not yet ready to tell me, and I wondered anew as I recalled her comforting promise if her plan were not akin to a fantastic scheme I myself had evolved, but had not had the courage to broach either to Lillian or Mary.

I fairly flew at the letter and copied it with such speed that it had been tucked into its envelope and stamped for a long minute before Dicky came back into the room, plainly discomposed.

"Haven't you copied that letter yet?" he demanded irritably at sight of me sitting idly by the window.

"To the last comma," I returned, smiling. "It is there on the tray, already stamped for mailing. I didn't seal it because I thought you might want to have your friend, Thorp, read it before it was mailed, so that he would be able to meet Phillip Veritzen—if he goes down there — with a knowledge of what everything means."

"Very laudable," Dicky returned, mollified. "It will lessen my task of making Thorp familiar with the situation. Now, you don't need to worry any longer. Phil Veritzen never can resist that bait. He'll start hot foot for South Jersey to see if you're really there as soon as Miss Whitlock shows him this. She'll telephone you as soon as he goes, and you and Mary can leisurely and safely double back to the Lansfield. Of course, the last stage of your journey will be from the station where Thorp comes in to New York by train — when he comes that way. I'll mail you a time table special delivery as soon as I can today, and then you can time yourselves so you will appear to have arrived upon one of those incoming trains from South Jersey. Also, as soon as old Phil begins his trek southward, I'll get Noel started back to the farm."

"You're going to drive him, you said," I remarked innocently, but regretted the remark deeply as Dicky looked embarrassed, then frowned portentously.

"I don't know where you got that fool idea into your head," he growled, "I never said any such thing."

Try following a red and green color scheme in your meal. Tomato juice, red cherries, cranberry juice—or some other fruit juices colored red with fruit coloring — make good cocktails. Beets, spinach, green beans, asparagus, broccoli or kale may be used as the vegetables. Salmon, pork tenderloin or chicken, any of them garnished with pimientos, may be served as the main course. Cherry, raspberry or strawberry gelatin desserts make an appetizing last course.

If you sprinkle a little flour in the grease in which you are to fry eggs, croquettes, etc., the grease will not sputter.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, January 7.

This may prove to be a day in which to "cash in" on much previous effort or meritorious performance, judging from the lunar transits. It is propitious for reaping after much diligent and efficient work, although there may be sudden change of plans or even environs or backers. It would be well to defer these rearrangements and to pursue objectives on lines already proving sound and practical.

Those whose birthday it is are to have the opportunity for making good or profiting from past performances of merit and practicality. Industry, fidelity and steadfastness, as well as ability, are to enlist ready support for promotion of worthwhile projects. However, there may be lures to change one's place or plans. Hasty decisions in this connection are hazardous.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent, industrious and dependable, although at times it may exhibit traits seemingly changeable and erratic. These may be attributable to the "eccentricities of genius." However, its worthy ambitions should be fulfilled.

Buffet Menus For Winter

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

We are knocking at your kitchen door today with a load of buffet recipes, designed mainly for winter supper consumption.

If it is to be a grand supper, or if you do as some hostesses, provide one very splendid dish flanked with just a salad, coffee and cheese, then clearly it is smoked turkey that is indicated. Men like smoked turkey and thinly-sliced Bermuda onion on rye bread.

Smoked turkey in aspic is something especially special! Add two cups hot chicken stock to six beaten egg yolks and cook over hot water till thickened. Season with pepper, paprika and a dash of cayenne, a teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and one and one-half teaspoons onion juice. Dissolve two tablespoons plain gelatin in one-half cup cold water and add to stock mixture. When partially congealed, add two cups smoked turkey cut in cubes, one-half cup chopped pimentoes and two-thirds cups sliced celery. Fold in two cups whipped, unsweetened cream and turn into ring mold. When serving, fill ring center with mixed salad.

Baked eggs with a mustard sauce are easy to do for a crowd. Butter individual ramekins, custard cups or muffin tins, and spread bread crumbs over bottom. Slip an egg into each dish. Sprinkle with salt. Cover with one tablespoon cream or rich milk for each egg. Place baking dishes on sheet or shallow pan. Bake in 350 F. oven until white is firm, or about 20 minutes.

The tangy sauce calls for two tablespoons each of flour, butter and dry mustard, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon vinegar and one cup hot meat stock or water. Melt butter, mix with flour and add seasonings and vinegar. When well blended, gradually add meat stock and cook for 10 minutes. Pour over baked eggs and serve.

Cream of lentil and tomato soup makes a hearty buffet soup. Half pound red lentils, two quarts water, one pint stewed tomatoes, one pint milk, teaspoon butter, one small carrot, one small onion, one cup cake flour two teaspoons salt, pinch of white pepper and one-half teaspoon celery seed will make about 6 portions. Boil lentils and tomatoes in water for 10 minutes. Chop onions and carrots and simmer in butter. Then add flour. Add hot milk to make cream sauce and add to lentil and tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Reheat and serve.

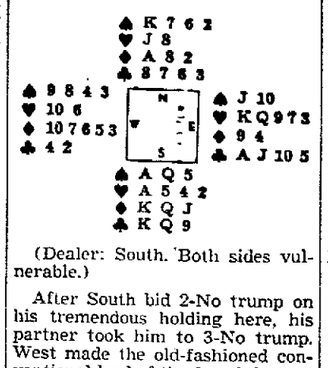
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU HAVE A PARTNER

It will pay you to remember that the lady, or gentleman, sitting opposite you is your partner. We are all prone to have too much confidence in our own ability, and not enough in that of our associates, but there are times when we should pass the buck to them. One of these is when defending against a No Trump contract. If our own hand is worthless we should play in such a way as to help our mate to make the best possible use of his or her resources.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After South bid 2-No trump on his tremendous holding here, his partner took him to 3-No trump. West made the old-fashioned conventional lead of the fourth-best of his longest and strongest suit, the diamond 5. As soon as he did, the safety of the contract was assured for the declarer.

South could count three tricks in spades, one in hearts, three in diamonds and a possible two in clubs, which he went for. He won the first trick in dummy, led a club, covered by the J and Q, reached dummy again with the spade K and led another club to East's A. His contract was now sure.

Had West realized that the defense depended on his partner's hand, he should have led his heart 10, as that was most likely to be his partner's suit, rather than clubs, because holders of majors usually like to bid them and the enemy had not. Had he done this, declarer's lone stopper would have been knocked out pronto. South could have taken only seven tricks before trying clubs. When he finally did, East could have run enough hearts to set the contract.

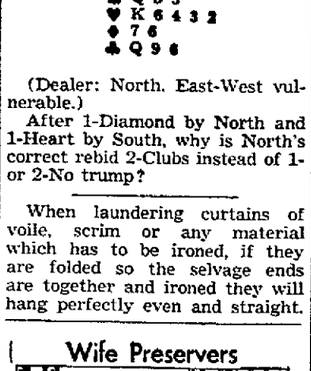
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

After 1-Diamond by North and 1-Heart by South, why is North's correct rebid 2-Clubs instead of 1- or 2-No trump?

When laundering curtains of voile, scrim or any material which has to be ironed, if they are folded so the selvage ends are together and ironed they will hang perfectly even and straight.

Wife Preservers

Keep a supply of alcohol (the rubbing variety) on hand in winter to wipe the windows in freezing weather Use cloth dampened with alcohol Also use it for mirrors and windshields, taking a wad of paper dampened with alcohol first and rubbing surface to be cleaned Then follow with a dry cloth on which you have sprinkled a little non-scratching cleaning powder To polish, use chamois skin or soft crushed paper

Exercise Will Slim Tummy

By MME. QUI VIVE

Since the day that women chucked steel-riveted corsets, the protruding abdomen has been the commonest of all anatomical defects. If you number yourself among the victims of the little shelf below the belt, contract the abdominal muscles, inflate the chest, take a deep breath, see what happens. There is a presto change from hills to prairie.

Keep in mind the need of drawing your tummy as far into your backbone as possible; in course of time it will be a habit. The practice of carrying the chest high and full will flatten the lower portion of the torso. A full chest means freer, deeper breathing, better circulation of the blood, normal digestive processive, so there are several rewards. The effect upon the complexion is favorable.

To flattan the bulge, try squatting exercise. Stand erect, legs rigid, chest high, hands on hips, toes pointed slightly outward. Lift on the toes, squat, rise and repeat. Yes, you're likely to take a tumble. What are a few flops in the cause of good appearance?

Take the soldier's position, lift on the toes, touch the floor with the finger tips without bending the knees. Unless there is more than considerable spread amidships one should be able to do this exercise quite rapidly. Not at first, but within a week's time. When fatigued, stand erect, take half a dozen deep breaths, then at it again.

Hints on Etiquette.

Put the glass at the right beyond the end of the knife; butter plate and salad to the left, when setting the dinner table. If you serve the salad as a separate course, it should be served on a serving plate in front of each diner.

An alarm clock will save much worry in cooking. Set the alarm for the time the cooking is to be completed—or as a reminder for inspection. Undivided attention may then be given to the other household interests.
